ZEPPELIN HOP TO U. S. IS SET FOR THURSDAY

250,000 Japanese Greet Airship as It Finishes 6,880 Miles.

FLIGHT OVER TOKYO PRECEDES LANDING

Crowd Breaks Police Line at Field to Hail 60 Aboard Craft.

ECKENER LIONIZED, PASSENGERS FETED

Engines, Apparently in Good Condition, Overhauled for Pacific Trip.

Tokyo, Aug. 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Graf Zeppelin, mightiest Leviathan of the air, rests safely tonight in a hangar at Kasumigaura Naval Airport, 30 miles northeast of Tokyo, while all Japan does honor to the commander and crew who brought her across the Atlantic Ocean, Europe and the vast continent of Asia to the Land of the Rising Sun.

The emissary which has forged the first air link between West and East will remain only a few days at the half-way post on her flight around the world. She is being groomed tonight to turn her blunt prow out over the Pacific and toward the New World on Thursday. Her stores are being replenished and her engines carefully inspected, although the journey of nearly 7,000 miles just completed appears not to have impaired them in the least.

The dirigible's arrival here tonight was one of the most impressive spectacles the people of Dai Nippon have ever witnessed. Nearly 250,000 people stood in awed silence as she hove into sight north of the city, her silver sides gleaming against the background of a clear blue sky.

Sails Majestically Over Tokyo.

Majestically she sailed over the swarming, twisting streets of the Japanese capital at a height of about 600 feet, all five of her motors running flawlessly. After circling over the heads of the kimono-clad thousands clustered on every house top, she turned her nose down the edge of Tokyo Bay and swung out toward Yokohama.

An hour and a half later she was over Tokyo again, circled the city and then flew straight out to the Kasumigaura landing field, where 500 Japanese bluejackets waited eagerly to grasp her landing lines.

Commander Hugo Eckener gave the command to drop her nose line at 6:26 p. m. (4:27 a. m., Eastern standard time). Forty minutes later she had been walked in the hangar. Behind her were 6,880 miles of flying, covered in 16 minutes less than 100 hours, at an average speed of about 65 miles an hour. Including the circling over Tokyo and Yokahoma, the Graf was in the air 101 hours and 33 minutes, covering a distance estimated at 6,950 miles.

Crowd Displays Enthusiasm.

Dusk was gathering as the Zeppelin came to earth, but the vast crowds that had waited for her, many of them from early morning and nearly all throughout a blazing hot afternoon, could not be restrained in their enthusiasm. There was a moment of silent tribute as the airship came down. Then men, women and children folded their brilliant parasols and spontaneously broke into a storm of handclapping followed by prolonged shouts of "Banzai! Banzai!"

The Japanese naval band broke into the strains of Deutschland Uber Alles, as officials stepped forward to greet the conquerors of the air lanes from Friedrichshafen to Tokyo. The ceremonies at the flying field lasted until 8:45 p. m., when Dr. Eckener left for Tokyo in a flower-bedecked car.

The rising moon shone on the Zeppelin's sides as she was walked into her hangar, with less than a yard of clearance between her and its roof.

Rigid Formality Forgotten.

Rigid Japanese formality was forgotten in the welcome to the crew and 20 passengers. Lowly coolies and gold-braided officers cheered with equal heartiness as the visitors stepped from the dirigible to the field and were hustled through the customs formalities. "Hochs" and "banzais" mingled in a branch bar set up by the Hamburg Grill of Tokio on the edge of the flying field. Japanese and Europeans drank toasts to the zeppelin in the native lager of Germany and in saki, Japan's rice wine.

The people on the zeppelin, who had eaten their Thursday breakfast in Germany, were offered dried chestnuts and dried cuttlefish for supper and were entertained by the dancing of geisha girls and by the singing of classic and modern Japanese songs.

The zeppelin's silver hull was first sighted by the watching thousands shortly after 4 p. m. Within 600

Glassman Firm Faces Liquor Padlock Suit

Hugh Miller, Post Staff Photographer.
Jacob (Jakie) Miller, said to be the collector for the alleged rum ring, leaving U. S. Commissioner Turnage's office with Deputy U. S. Marshal Harry Parker (left), and Sergt. George Little, of the police flying squadron (right).

Details of Alleged Rum Ring Are Revealed in Affidavits.

In a civil suit to invoke the padlock provisions of the National Prohibition Act against Herbert Glassman, his garages and rent-a-car services, and thirteen other individuals, filed yesterday in District Supreme Court, the Government revealed some of the alleged details on which it bases conspiracy charges against Glassman and eleven others.

The suit for injunction follows the Government's action of last week in swearing out warrants charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition act against the dozen men. Ten of the number have surrendered or been taken into custody and are now at liberty, under bond, pending a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage

SWISS FLIERS NEARING U. S., IT IS BELIEVED

Plane, Last Seen Passing Over Azores, Turns Northwestward.

ARE DUE AT NEW YORK AT 6 O'CLOCK TONIGHT

First 900 Miles Covered at Rate of Eighty Miles Per Hour.

MAY GO SOUTHWARD FROM NEWFOUNDLAND

Men Who Hopped Off From Lisbon Said They Might Refuel at Halifax.

(By the Associated Press.)

Two young Swiss aviators, with nearly a third of their perilous journey behind them, last night had left the last outpost of Europe behind them and pointed their White monoplane for the shores of America.

Taking off from Juncal, near Lisbon, at 1:30 a. m., E. S. T., they passed over Praia Victoria, on the east coast of the Island of Terceira, the Azores, about 11½ hours later. The number of their plane CH 245 was read by the villagers before it swung away to the northwestward.

Plane Flying Under Speed.

These first 900 miles had been flown at an average speed just under 80 miles an hour. This was far below the 105 miles an hour of which the plane was capable, but weather reports indicated the fliers had contended with opposing winds.

They had said on starting they would return if their gasoline consumption proved too high but those who saw them pass Terceira saw no indication that the flight was to be abandoned.

There were left about 2,200 miles between them and their goal at New York. If they laid their course for Newfoundland they would sight their first land in the New World after covering little more than half that distance.

May Stop at Halifax.

Oscar Kaesar and Kurt Luescher, the fliers, had expected they might have to refuel at Halifax, N. C., but if this was not necessary they hoped to reach New York by 6 p. m. (E. S. T.) today.

A non-stop flight across the north Atlantic has been successfully made only once before, and then by the flying team of Huenefeld, Koehl and Fitzmaurice, who were forced down short of their goal on lonely Greenley Island.

BRITISH QUIT RHINE COUNTRY IN SEPTEMBER

Occupation Terminates by Christmas, Says Henderson.

CHALLENGE SEEN TO OTHER ALLIES

Foreign Minister Informs France and Belgium of Movement.

EXHORTS GERMANY TO WAIVE CLAIMS

States Filing of Suits May Prolong Shift Until Next Year.

The Hague, Aug. 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Great Britain will begin evacuation of her troops from the Rhineland next Month, British Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson today informed Gustav Stresemann, Germany's foreign minister; Premier Aristide Briand of France, and Paul Hymans, Belgian foreign minister.

Henderson asked Stresemann to waive damage claims arising from the occupation of German soil and said that if this were done he would promise to have the 6,000 British soldiers out of the Rhineland long before Christmas. Evacuation would begin about the third week in September, he said, regardless of the outcome of the present conference, but would be finished more quickly if it were not necessary to settle all claims. Otherwise, he added, it might take until spring to complete the evacuation.

Nature of Challenge.

Henderson's announcement was in the nature of a challenge to France and Belgium to follow Great Britain's example. Neither Briand or Hymans however, is in a position to fix a date for beginning the evacuation of French and Belgian troops as they have already taken the stand that they would not commit themselves to an evacuation date until the fate of the Young plan was settled. To give them time without placing evacuation squarely on that issue it was agreed today to adjourn the political commission until Wednesday. On that day the subcommittee of jurists is expected to report on how long it would take to settle damage claims arising from the occupation of the Rhineland.

It being evident that damage claims would dwindle if waived by the German government, the claimants being certain to have less interest in collecting from their own government, it is argued that it will be to Germany's advantage to waive her claims and free her territory more quickly. In that event French evacuation could also be speeded up. Fixing the date for withdrawal of French troops, however, still awaits agreement between Germany's principal creditors as to how the Young plan annuities are to be divided among them.

Busy on Compromise.

The financial experts pored over tables of figures all today and half of last night in an effort to determine the money yield from the compromise offer made by France, Italy, Belgium and Japan to Great Britain. They reached no definite conclusion as to how near this offer comes to meeting Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden's demand that the British share of reparations be increased by 48,000,000 marks ($11,433,000) to bring it into accord with the Spa percentages.

All indications tonight point to the adjournment of the conference Saturday without the widely divergent viewpoints of the British and the four delegations insisting upon integral acceptance of the Young plan being reconciled. Briand is understood to have made arrangements to leave The Hague at the end of this week. Arthur Henderson has let it be known that he must return to London before the assembly of the League of Nations meets next month.

360 CHANGES IN RATES BARED BY TARIFF BILL AS REVISED IN SENATE

Navy May Not Send Racing Plane Abroad

Officials Doubt Capacity to Fly; Williams Wires Backer for Money.

(Associated Press.)

Whether Lieut. Al Williams, naval flier, will represent America in the Schneider Cup race in England next month with his Mercury racing plane was in doubt last night, with the final determination depending upon David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, and Williams' financial backers.

Failure of the flier to get the craft from the water during the tests on the Severn River near Annapolis, Md., has brought objections from naval officials to his taking it abroad without proving its ability, and the $20,000 necessary for the trip will not be supplied by the Navy.

In the tests Williams succeeded in attaining a taxing speed of 106 miles an hour, but he was hampered by bad weather for days and when he finally tried, was unable to get his craft up more than 4 feet. He is still confident, however, that adjustments will eliminate the trouble.

Democratic Ranks Hurl Fiery Criticism at News of Levies.

COMMITTEE MINORITY IS GIVEN DOCUMENT

Thomas Asserts He Will Seek to Oust All But Farm Duties.

CHEMICAL SCHEDULE GETS MOST OF CUTS

Pig Iron Is Increased as Lumber Products Are Put on Free List.

(Associated Press.)

Accompanied by fiery criticism on the parts of Democrats, as well as some Republican independents, and minority threats of another attempt to keep the revision limited to agriculture, the House tariff bill rates, as revised by the Senate finance committee Republicans, last night were made public.

Carrying approximately 360 rate increases and reductions, from those adopted by the House, the committee document, two months in the making, simultaneously was submitted to the finance committee democrats. They were excluded a month ago when the majority committeemen retired behind closed doors to rewrite the bill.

Under an agreement between party leaders, the measure will not be taken up in the Senate until September 4, as additional time will be required by the committee to make changes in the equally important administration provisions of the measure. The Republican committeemen began this work yesterday, immediately after the Senate recessed until Thursday.

House Sugar Rate Cut.

The more important rate changes proposed by the eleven Republican members included a reduction in the House sugar duties, but still an increase over present rates; increase to $1.50 in the $1.12½ a ton rate on pig iron; restoration of the present 31 cent duty on raw wool which the House raised three cents a pound; increases in wool waste duties; restoration to the free list of shingles and cedar lumber, which the House levied at 25 per cent, and the placing of logs of fir, spruce, hemlock, and cedar, now dutiable at $1 per thousand board feet, on the free list.

The greatest number of reductions approved was in the chemical schedule, most of the 67 changes recommended in this section being decreases in house duties. One of the few increases proposed was 3½ cents a pound on casein, which the House left at 2½ cents.

Shortly after the bill became public property, Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, announced he would offer a resolution when it was taken up in the Senate to eliminate all schedules in the bill not relating to agriculture, but permitting the proposal of specific amendments to the nonagricultural sections from the floor.

Parliamentary Point Made.

"If the resolution should be agreed to," Senator Thomas said, "it will be in order to offer amendments relating to the several schedules eliminated from the bill, but if offered, the burden will be upon the proposer to make a case or else such amendment would fail."

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, said the more he read the committee rates the more he was displeased, and added he would either support the Thomas resolution or reintroduce a similar one he offered before the recess, which lost by a margin of one vote.

Senator King, of Utah, a Democratic member of the finance committee, declared the tentative committee bill was "as unsatisfactory as the House

TROOPS GUARD MILL AFTER STRIKE FIGHT

Union Workers Use Force and Keep Textile Plant Closed.

GATES OPEN AGAIN TODAY

Marion, N. C., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—State troops tonight kept peace in Marion as the climax of a riotous hour just at dawn today in which strikers from the Clinchfield cotton mill prevented reopening the mill with nonunion workers.

Two companies of guardsmen were called out this morning by Nat A. Townsend, executive counselor to Gov. O. Max Gardner, after strikers and strike sympathizers, said to number some 600, had forcibly prevented half that number of nonunion workers entering the mill. The mill had been closed for three weeks, and only yesterday the United Textile Workers Union formally called a strike.

No one was seriously hurt in the battle at the mill gate, although Superintendent Henderson, of the mill, was beaten, and a number of other men more or less bruised. Minor skirmishes occurred later in the day, however, in one of which Clarence Sexton, union member, was seriously cut in a fight with Eugene Bobo and Sam Ray, nonunionists. Sexton was cut from his collarbone the length of his back.

The strikers were in an unruly mood early today after having repulsed efforts to break the strike. Officials addressed them urging that they be orderly and threatening to call troops otherwise. "Bring on your troops!" the strikers shouted.

Townsend shortly afterward called Company B, 105th Engineers, from

SUN GOD AIRPLANE NEARS HOME GOAL

Spokane Pilots to Hover at Miles City, Mont., Is Note to Aid.

REFUEL OVER ST. PAUL

Aberdeen, S. D., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The endurance plane, Spokane Sun God, reached here 6:25 p. m. today on its westward flight. The plane, accompanied by its refueling ship, circled over the city.

Taking on 75 additional gallons of gasoline in two contacts over Aberdeen, the plane headed for Miles City, Mont., this evening and will probably circle over the airport there throughout the night, according to a note which Nick Mamer, the pilot, dropped to his refueling pilot, Vernon Bookwelter.

Preparations had been made here to allow the refueling plane to take on gasoline, but its tanks were emptied into Mamer's plane before landing here, and the Sun God started west alone.

Mamer requested that the Miles City, Mont., airport be sufficiently lighted throughout the night to allow him to land should he be forced to. He had planned at first to fly to Missoula, Mont.

Bookwalter will leave before dawn in an attempt to catch up with the Sun God, and continue refueling operations tomorrow morning. The refueling plane was loaded here tonight with another supply of gasoline. A report that Mamer would attempt another circuit of the coast-to-coast trip if his motor holds out is unfounded, Bookwalter said. All that Mamer is trying to demonstrate is the fact that refueling operations can be carried on at different points across the country, rather than at one field as in past endurance flights, he added.

Mrs. Willebrandt, Syndicate, Sued

G. O. Nations, Former Aid, Says Her Articles Malign Him.

(Associated Press.)

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 19.—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former Assistant Attorney General of the United States, and the Current News Features Co. were made defendants in a $1,000,000 libel suit filed here today by Gus O. Nations, former chief of the St. Louis Federal prohibition enforcement unit.

Nations, under garnishment proceedings, also tied up funds due Mrs. Willebrandt, from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, which has published her articles on prohibition and its enforcement.

Nations charges the articles were intended to make the public understand that he, while acting as Federal prohibition agent in St. Louis, had been guilty of official misconduct in connection with the Griesedieck brewery case.

The petition, signed by Nations as his own attorney, refers to an excellent reputation and wide acquaintanceship Nations enjoyed during the tenure of his office from January 13, 1922, to June 30, 1924, and during the years following until the publication of articles by Mrs. Willebrandt, the first one of which describes how Mrs. Willebrandt "had to fight the Antisaloon League to remove a popular agent" which, the plaintiff believes, referred to his activities and experiences.

HAM JOINS PLEA FOR 10-CENT FARE

Traction Chief Weathers Barrage of Questions From Hartman.

GIVES DATA ON UPKEEP

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. yesterday began presentation before the Public Utilities Commission of evidence to support its demand for 10-cent car fares with four tokens for 30 cents, and almost immediately fell into difficulties under the barrage of questions asked for the commission by Vice Chairman Harleigh H Hartman.

William P. Ham, president of the company, took the stand as the first witness, with A. G Neal, vice president and comptroller of the company, at his elbow to aid with figures. Ham qualified himself as an expert by reciting his past experience, and gave a brief history of his company, illuminated with a large map of the street car and bus lines of the city, showing how the Capital Traction Co. was in direct competition with the lines of his company.

Although S R. Bowen, general counsel of the railway, made it a special point to say that newspaper reports had erroneously made it appear as if his company had demanded an increased fare, Ham told the commission that any fare increase which may be granted to the Capital Traction Co. must also be given to the Washington Railway & Electric Co. Unless uniform fares are maintained he said the effect would be little less than disastrous.

Ham then presented his company's first exhibit marked "fair value of property within the District of Columbia as of December 31, 1928," the total of which was $19,210,899 39. This figure was arrived at by taking the fair value found by the former utilities commission as of July 1, 1914, and adding additions to capital since that time.

"What is the purpose of this exhibit?" questioned Hartman. "Is it to prove the fair value of this company as of December 31, 1928?"

"Not in the sense of proving it for the purposes of a valuation proceed-

250 CHINESE KILLED FIGHTING RED ARMY

Invasion of Territory by Soviet Troops Reported to Washington.

TWO BATTLES REVEALED

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Invasion of Chinese territory by Soviet troops and a Chinese casualty list of more than 200 were officially announced by the State Department here yesterday. The American Consul at Harbin, George C. Hanson, transmitted the information in an official dispatch which the department made public.

Another clash, involving 10,000 Soviet troops armed with 30 field pieces and machine guns, was reported by M. S. Myers, American Consul at Mukden. This Soviet army crossed the border and attacked the Chinese troops between Manchuli and Chalainor. The Chinese casualties were 50 killed, according to this information. This brings the total Chinese casualty list to 250 so far, according to the State Department's official advices.

Consul Myers' telegram, transmitted through the American Legation at Peiping is based on an official telegram from Taitsihai to the Chinese government. Consul Hanson's report is based on his own information and responsibility and is the first official confirmation from American sources that war is actually being waged by Soviet troops in Chinese territory.

As a result of the Soviet invasion the Chinese government has ordered 40,000 additional troops rushed to the border and along the line of the Chinese-Eastern Railway. Dr. C. C. Wu, the Chinese Minister, called at the State Department yesterday and announced the dispatch of these additional troops.

Dr. Wu has been informed by his government that the additional troops will be used chiefly to protect the terminal points of the railway. Aside from the invasion of Soviet troops, the railway is in danger of attack from Russians who have been retained in minor positions and who are reported to be encouraging strikes and acts of sabotage. Prince Georges Police Raid Boxing Match, Arrest Five Charges of Promoting Prize Fight With No Permit Laid As Crowd of 2,500 Turns Away From Arena Near Seat Pleasant.

Prince Georges County police last night raided an allegedly illegal boxing match on Sheriff road near Seat Pleasant, Md., and placed five persons under arrest on charges of "having promoted a prize fight with no permit."

Having received word from the boxing commission at Baltimore that illegal fights were being held at Washington Park, Sheriff Charles S. Early started an investigation. It was finally found that the fights were being held at a dancing pavilion known as Williams Electrical Park, and the sheriff planned the raid for last night.

Led by Chief Deputy Sheriff A. W. Hepburn, County Policemen Frank Prince, Sergt. Hervey Machen, V. M. Nichols and Claude Reese, Deputy Sheriffs L. E. Dutrow and Ralph Brown, Town Bailiff William Nagle, of Bladensburg, and Constable George Wiseman waited until the gong for the first round had been sounded, and as Referee Harry Sheehy, 3311 N street northwest, was giving final instructions to two colored fighters, Prince, Nagel and Dutrow forced their way through the crowd to the ring and arrested the two fighters, who gave their names as Battling (Grady) Gamble, 25 years old, 1708 Tenth street northwest, and Tiger (James) Glascoe, 19, 1801 Eighth street northwest, and the referee.

Until about ten years ago, the referee fought in the ring under the name of "Kid" Sullivan and at one

Stampeding Horses Kill Man; Five Hurt

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—One man was killed and five others were injured, several seriously, today when horses attached to a Field Artillery battery stampeded at Camp Russell, summer training grounds of troops from Fort D. A. Russell, 30 miles west of here.

The dead trooper is Pvt. Walter C. Bronson, a member of Battery A, of the Seventy-sixth Field Artillery. The five injured men were rushed to the post hospital.

Claire Fahy Quits Derby; Claims Sabotage to Plane

Former Capital Resident Makes Forced Landing at Calexico; Marvel Crosson Lost in Arizona Mountains; Six Pilots Reach Phoenix.

Calexico, Calif., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Claire Fahy, of Los Angeles, formerly of Washington, D. C., entrant in the Santa Monica to Cleveland air derby, forced down here today, announced tonight she had found evidence that her plane had been tampered with. She said she had withdrawn from the race.

Welton, Ariz., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—A searching party returned here tonight without having found any trace of Marvel Crosson, San Diego woman flier, reported to have made a forced landing in the mountains 12 miles north of here today during the second day's flight of the Santa Monica to Cleveland women's air derby.

Four ranchers reported having seen a plane of the type piloted by Miss Crosson dive into a thick growth of cottonwood trees a short distance from the Gila River.

The searching party was dispatched from here before noon, when it became apparent that Miss Crosson had met with mishap.

Another party left Welton tonight to comb the mountainous section. It was feared that if Miss Crosson were uninjured, she might wander and become lost, or, in event of a serious crack-up might be in need of medical attention.

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Six of the nineteen young pilots racing in the Santa Monica-Cleveland women's air derby led the fliers to this night control point today on the sec-bill," while Jouett Shouse, head of the Democratic national committee's executive committee, asserted:

"Such concessions as are made will turn out to be those that are of the least consequence."

Political Ends Seen.

"The analysis of the schedules as they became known," Shouse added, "made it plain that the motivating principle behind the proposed enactment was not protection to American industry—still less protection for American labor—but a simple determination to enable special groups of industrialists to cash in on their last year's campaign contributions."

The committee rates carried a caption that they were subject to correction before the entire bill was reported.

By schedules they showed 67 changes in the House rates on chemicals, oils and paints; 36 alterations in the earths, earthenware and glassware schedule; 51 in metals, 8 in wood and manufactures of, 9 in sugar, 4 in tobacco, 70 in agriculture, 1 in spirits, 20 in cotton manufactures, 7 in flax, hemp and jute; 33 in wool, 1 in silk, 5 in rayon, 10 in papers and books, and 34 in sundries.

Senate Convenes, Declares Recess

Less Than Quorum Present for Session Lasting Two Minutes.

The Senate convened again yesterday, remained in session about two minutes and then took a three-day recess. It will continue to do this—hold perfunctory meetings and recess—until two days after Labor Day.

By that time the new tariff bill will be ready for consideration, and the stage will be set for one of the grandest parliamentary fights in the Senate's history.

Only 31 senators, less than a quorum, were in their seats when Vice President Curtis rapped for order yesterday. A prayer, a motion to adjourn by Majority Leader Watson, and the session was over. It was all so sudden that many persons in the galleries gave way to laughter.

Among the members present was Senator Heflin (Democrat), of Alabama, wearing his cotton suit. Evidently he came back with a new supply of stories, for he had his colleagues in a high state of merriment.

Posses Seek Man For Attack by Ax

Road Worker Runs Amuck in Dispute Over Amount of Pay Check.

Special to The Washington Post.

Dover, Dela., Aug. 19.—Delaware and Maryland State police, aided by a posse of 300 citizens of the two Commonwealths, are scouring highways and byways in search of John Tilson, 30-year-old Negro, who ran amuck with an ax yesterday seriously injuring one man, then escaped into a nearby woods after several others had eluded his attacks.

Albert Starkey, 35, is in Dover Hospital in a critical condition with deep cuts on the head and face. Tilson was a member of a State road gang in Maryland. He quarreled with Jacob Passewater, assistant foreman, over his pay check and after kicking and knocking him down went to a tool house and picked up a large ax and began attacking Millard Bull, foreman, and John K. Flick, the contractor, as well as Charles Water, one of the assistants. Starkey, with others, went to their aid and received his injuries when he grappled with the enraged Negro, who then threw the ax against the side of the house with such force that he broke the handle.

The woods in which he disappeared has been surrounded all day but no sign of the fugitive has been seen. Starkey has been unconscious since the attack.

Hail Damages Peaches.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 19 (Special).—A fall of hail, limited in extent, did some damage to a half dozen peach and apple orchards early this morning in the Inwood-Gerardstown section near here. Some fruit was knocked off and much was bruised.

SINCLAIR FREEDOM PLEA BEFORE JUDGE

Gordon and Rover Send Their Recommendations to Siddons in Maine.

HE IMPOSED SENTENCE

Applications of Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate, and Henry Mason Day, one of his chief assistants, for their release from the District Jail were submitted to Justice Peyton Gordon, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, yesterday by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover. Sinclair and Day are serving six and four months sentences, respectively, for contempt of court in connection with jury shadowing activities during the trial of Sinclair and Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the United States in connection with the Teapot Dome oil lease.

The applications were submitted to Justice Gordon because he was United States Attorney at the time of the Sinclair-Fall trial, Rover stating that he thought his recommendation to Attorney General William D. Mitchell should be accompanied by that of the prosecutor of the case.

Justice Gordon and United States Attorney Rover announced they would forward their recommendations to Justice Frederick L. Siddons, who presided at the contempt trials and imposed sentence. Justice Siddons is now at Haven, Me. All papers in the case, together with the applications and recommendations, were dispatched by mail last night.

Neither Justice Gordon nor the United States Attorney would disclose reasons stated in the applications on which the two men feel that they have served sufficient time.

Justice Siddons is expected to return the papers in the case together with his recommendation to United States Attorney Rover, who, in turn, will submit them to the Attorney General. If the Department of Justice, the presiding justice and the prosecutors approve the applications, they will then go to President Hoover for final action.

Child Instantly Killed When Struck by Train

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 19.—Jean Atkinson, 18-month-old and only child of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Atkinson, of Stafford County, was instantly killed yesterday when struck by the engine of an R. F. and P. passenger train in front of her home.

The little child had momentarily wandered from her father's side and was playing with gravel between the railroad tracks. The train, running fast to make up time, could not be stopped before the child was struck. The child's father is a section foreman of the railroad. A neighbor of the Atkinsons saw the child hurt, but was too far away to avert the tragedy.

FIVE ARE ARRESTED AT BOXING MATCH

time measured blows with Battling Nelson.

Mary Johnson, colored, of 1317 T street northwest, who was selling tickets at the door, also was arrested.

The more than 2,500 members of the audience, mixed white and colored, were permitted to leave unmolested by the police, who found thye had a tremendous traffic problem on their hands as well as five prisoners.

The prisoners were taken to the Upper Marlboro Jail and were held on $5,000 bond each for their appearance in Upper Marlboro branch of County Police Court Friday. At a late hour none had made bond. Additional charges probably will be placed against the prisoners today.

The raid was well planned andoccasioned none of the riotous disorder expected on such a venture. The audience moved quietly, albeit quickly, from the arena and drove off, with hardly a protest. Among them were several prominent merchants of Washington.

In the middle of last week, James C. Blackwell, clerk to the county commissioners, received a letter from the boxing comissioners complaining that a well-known Washington trainer had reported that boxing matches were being held in the county without a license and that the promoter had boasted that he had the permission of the sheriff. Sheriff Early immediately ordered an investigation, which resulted in the raid.

"It is a sporting chance," the message read. "Let's go."

Secretary Ingalls held a conference late yesterday with Williams, Commander John Towers, acting chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics; Lieut. John R. Poppin, and Lieut. Charles Fox, on the ability of the plane.

"We don't know whether the plane will fly or not," Ingalls said after the conference. "If there is any chance of it making a showing in the race, we want to send it, but if there is none, it would be useless to sent it."

He expects to make a final decision today.

Earlier yesterday Williams, acting under the impression that his trip had been sanctioned without further tests, ordered it prepared for shipment Friday on the Majestic. He must sail then or on the Berengaria August 28, which would give him but two days' preparation in England for the race.

Commander Towers opposed the flight on the ground that the seaplane had not proved its airworthiness, that there was great possible danger to the pilot and that it would not be a wise investment to send the flier over without proving the plane, which is Williams 'own design.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 19.—Authorities of the Naval Academy were standing by tonight ready to give the necessary assistance in placing the Mercury racer seaplane aboard the mine sweeper Sand Piper, a Government vessel, to be taken to New York and thence transported overseas for entrance i nthe Schneider Cup races off Cowes, England, September 6 and 7.

PANTAGES GRANTED THREE DAYS' DELAY

Hearing of Theater Owner, Accused by Girl, Is Set for Next Thursday.

MAY FACE NEW CHARGES

Los Angeles, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—A three-day delay in the plea of Alexander Pantages, 54-year-old theatrical magnate, to statutory charges preferred by Eunice Pringle, 17, a dancer, was granted by Superior Court today following a motion by the defendant's attorneys.

The attorneys said they had not completed study of the case following the close of a preliminary hearing, last Friday, in which Pantages was held for trial. The lawyers indicated their client would plead not guilty when arraigned next Thursday. He is at liberty on $25,000 bond.

Meanwhile all State witnesses were guarded and deputies of the district attorney's office continued an investigation into the statement of a former woman employe at Pantages', Los Angeles theater that he had attempted to mistreat her and several other young women in his offices.

The woman's statement comprised the sixth incriminating document, deputies said they had received since the close of the hearing. The others were alleged to have been made by William Jobelman, a publicity agent for Pantages; Roy Keene, an executive in the Pantages Theater, Tillie Russo, an usher, and two former women employes whose names were withheld.

The statement of the unnamed woman, deputies said, accused Pantages of making proposals that "set her rage aflame." The woman left and "never went back there because I knew I wouldn't have a job."

Miss Pringle accused Pantages of attacking her while she interviewed him in an attempt to place her dancing act on his vaudeville circuit.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

ONE of the most difficult things in the world is for an outsider to follow tariff making closely and understand free government, or more specifically, the Senate of the United States. This has nothing to do with the merits or demerits of the tariff system. Neither has it anything to do with such men as Senator Smoot, of Utah, who come out very frankly and tell the world that they are for a tariff of so much on sugar or on some other commodity.

The confusion is raised by those who barter and trade, or those who, being against the tariff as a theory of government, haven't the will power to resist puny little bites that are given to them. If they can go back to their States and tell their constituents that they have gotten a tariff on chewing gum, they do so without regard to what they had to give to get it.

* * * *

WITH all the odds apparently against them, it is significant now that the Republican regulars, the dyed-in-the-wool protectionists, do not seem apprehensive in the least. They know that on the surface the Democratic-Progressive coalition should be able to vote them down and write a tariff bill to suit its own pleasure. To any one seeing this apparent state of affairs it would seem that the regulars' version of a tariff has not a chance in the world.

But the regulars are not worried. They know that at the proper time they will be able to go to some of those now shouting the loudest against the tariff and give them a little tariff on something that is grown or manufactured in their States and silence them.

It is not a question of whether this proffer is beneficial to the State concerned. It is simply that it is something that the senator will be able to go back home and say: "Looks here what I got yuh." By the same token this senator has not the courage to turn down the offer, because he is afraid some opponent would then get up and point out that he had declined something that had been offered to the State.

* * * *

IT seems to be an unwritten law among the senators that the light shall not shine upon everything that happens in tariff-making. It would not be healthy for the senators if it did.

It is seldom, however, that anything as amazing occurs as that which is going on in Florida just now. Glenn B. Skipper, the Republican national committeeman, anxious to hold that State Republican, is running around turning up everything with which he can tell the Floridians: "See, what I've got'cha."

He is carrying around a resolution adopted by the Florida Legislature calling upon the Florida delegation in Congress to support a tariff, virtually any kind, just so Florida gets something. One would only have to read the resolution to realize that the Legislature did not know what it was doing when it passed that petition, and neither will Skipper contend that it is the sense of the body.

Nevertheless, it is sufficient to make Senator Park Trammell panicky. There have been few parallels to his action in wiring the Republican leaders that he would support their bill without knowing what kind of a bill it will be. Not only is the nervous Trammell as jumpy as the well-known Mexican bean, but the more capable and reliable Senator Fletcher is wavering.

* * * *

THE Florida goings-on, incidentally, reveal for the first time that citrus fruits have heretofore been produced at a loss, which is supposed to be the test of whether tariff protection should be given or not. It is not contended now that they are produced at a loss. It is simply that the Floridans are being told that they are going to be given something, the great majority of them probably think that a 3 cent tariff on oranges means 3 cents added to the return on their crop.

In fact, one Florida spokesman recently explaining the need for a tariff on citrus fruits said naively that he realized that there was no competition for them at this time but that a check up had disclosed that the greatest single customer of a big Florida nursery was the Mexican government.

"Those Mexicans are smart," he said. "They are buying up our plants and setting them in the border states. In a few years they will be pouring fruit into this country."

But Mr. Trammell is willing to give other sections of the country anything they want if he will be able to stand with Skipper and say "Look, what I got for you."

This could not happen anywhere except the Senate. It would be called an ugly name elsewhere.

DETAILS OF ALLEGED RUM RING REVEALED

Glassman and Others Are Named Defendants in Padlock Suit.

DOZEN ACCUSED OF PLOT

next Thursday. In announcing the issuance of the warrant last week, United States Attorney Leo C. Rover and Assistant United States Attorney Harold W. Orcutt stated that they believed they had broken up the biggest liquor ring that ever operated in the District of Columbia.

Shortly after the suit was filed Justice William Hitz signed a temporary restraining order which will remain in effect until motion for a permanent injunction is heard.

Other developments in the case during the day were the beginning of the grand jury investigation of the conspiracy charges and the surrender of Jacob ("Jakie") Miller, said to be the collector for the group. Miller was surrendered to Sergt. George M. Little, of the police vice squad, by Myron G. Ehrlich, attorney for the group. He was immediately taken to Commissioner Turnage's office, and when that official could not be located, United States Attorney Rover released the prisoner into the custody of Attorney Ehrlich. Later in the day he went to Commissioner Turnage's home and made bond of $2,500, with Milton S. Kronheim as surety.

The injunction is directed against Herbert Glassman, doing business under the names of Glassman's Sales Co., the Glass Rent-A-Car Co., the Glassman Garage and the Glassman's Studebaker Sales and Service, the Glassman Rent-A-Car Corporation, Inc.; Samuel Goldstein, alias Goldie Goldstein, alias Sam Goldstein, alias Henry Green; Harry Behrle, alias Spike Behrle; Irving Rosenberg, alias Ike Rosenberg, alias Irven Rosenberg; David Glassman; Alton Cissel, alias Oney Cissel, alias Onie Cissel; Antonio D'Ambrosio, alias Tony D'Ambrosio, alias Anthony D'Ambrosio; Jacob Miller, alias Jakie Miller; Julius Sanders; Harvey O'Connor, alias Scobie O'Connor; Robert C. Jones, alias Punk Jones; Francis Joseph Paxton; Francis W. Hill, sr., and Harry Sherby.

All the individuals named in the suit are charged with conspiracy excepting Hill and Sherby, who are said to be respective owners of the property at 2101-2105 Fourteenth street northwest, and 1319 L street northwest, where Herbert Glassman's businesses are operated.

The Government in the conspiracy warrants charged that the Fourteenth and L street establishmen's were used as depots for the storage of whisky, and the suit charges that the premises are maintained as "places where intoxicating liquor * * * unlawfully is manufactured, sold, kept, stored and bartered * * * and that said premises and all intoxicating liquor and property kept and used in maintaining the same are a public and common nuisance."

Affidavits signed by Lewin Marion Mackintosh, Elmer O'Hara, and Clarence H. Osterman, all employes of Glassman's garages and rent-a-car services, and Sergt. Oscar J. Letterman are attached to the suit. They set out specific details of alleged violations of the prohibition law.

Whisky Stored, Says One.

Mackintosh, in his affidavit, alleges that large quantities of whisky were stored in the garages at various times from May, 1928, to July last. He names Herbert Glassman, Goldstein, Cissel, Paxton, Jones, Behrle, D'Ambrosio, Rosenberg, David Glassman, and Miller as being involved in the alleged violations. He alleges that Herbert Glassman acted as manager for Goldstein and Behrle, and that the three employed D'Ambrosio and Rosenberg to drive automobiles and trucks loaded with intoxicants stored in a store room of the garage at 2101 Fourteenth street last spring when the police seized a truck loaded with whisky in the garage, and that Glassman immediately removed the liquor stored in the storeroom to the L street garage.

Mackintosh charges that Herbert Glassman, David Glassman, Goldstein and Behrle received orders for whisky at the Fourteenth street garage, and that Rosenberg and D'Ambrosio procured intoxicants from the garage and filled the orders. He alleges that Herbert Glassman hired Miller to make collections for intoxicants sold by Herbert Glassman, Goldstein and Behrle. He charges, too, that other garages not named also were used for the storage of whisky.

Glassman's Consent Alleged.

O'Hara, who says he is a bookkeeper and desk manager for the Glassman automobile enterprises, in his affidavit charges that Goldstein, Cissel and Jones, together with other alleged runners, stored and kept intoxicants at the L street garage with the consent of Herbert Glassman until the liquors were distributed from the place and sold in small lots.

O'Hara states that in November, 1928, he was employed by Goldstein and his partner, Behrle, to keep books for them. He states that he kept the books and noted therein the amounts of money which were due and payable to Goldstein and Behrle for whisky and other intoxicating liquors sold and disposed of by them. He affirms that O'Connor gave him information as to the sums of money owed for intoxicants, the information consisting of cost of whisky, amounts and sums paids by the purchaser, together with various items of expense. He alleges that automobiles loaded with whisky were driven into the L street garage generally twice a day. The intoxicants so brought into the garage were stored in an old truck that was kept on the second floor, he charges. He alleged that Sanders was connected with the others in the L street activities.

Took Orders, Is Testimony.

Osterman affirms that he is night manager of the Fourteenth street garage, and that on order of Herbert Glassman he took many telephone orders for whisky which were placed on the desk of David Glassman. He recites a number of instances wherein liquor was stored in the garages, and relates the manner and method of distribution very much as does Mackintosh and O'Hara.

Sergt. Letterman's affidavit recites details of a raid last April 10 on the Fourteenth street garage which resulted in the seizure of 752 quarts of alleged corn whisky. He also tells of the seizure of four five-gallon cans of alcohol at the L street garage last May 21.

The Government asks that the garages be closed for one year, and that the dozen men charged with conspiracy be permanently restrained from traveling to solicit, soliciting, taking and accepting orders for the sale, shipment and delivery, and from selling intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes. The Government also asks that they be restrained from manufacturing, storing, selling, transporting and bartering intoxicants upon and in any place or places in Washington. The temporary injunction is merely personal and does not interfere with legitimate Glassman enterprises.

Sanders and Jones are the only members of the group who have not surrendered or been apprehended. Deputy marshals and police expect to round them up in a few days. All the others are at liberty on bonds of $5,000 or $2,500.

VOICE SILENCED

JOHN B. DANIEL.

J. B. DANIEL DEAD; NOTED ANNOUNCER

Operation Is Fatal to Radio Man, Known for Role at Big Events.

FIANCEE SURVIVES HIM

The golden tones of a voice known in every large city and small hamlet reached by the national hook-up he represented were forever hushed yesterday with the passing of John B. Daniel, announcer. He died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Ned York City, of peritonitis, which developed after an appendectomy operation.

Daniel was one of the outstanding announcers in the United States and had a brilliant future just ahead as the star announcer for the National Broadcasting Company. He came to radio more than five years ago, his first position having been with Station WJZ, New York City. After two years he was sent to WRC here, where he remained until about a year ago, when he was transferred to New York again. Some of the largest companies in the country selected him to announce their programs. In the description of public events he was almost without a peer and was being selected on every occasion.

Daniel's death revealed plans for his marriage this month with Miss Bertha Cable, daughter of Lieut. William A. Cable, U. S. N., retired, of 1910 K Street northwest. News of the death of her fiance was received by Miss Cable from NBC officials here. She said that she was in the midst of wedding preparations.

The marriage, Daniel planned, was to have been performed by Mayor James J. Walker, of New York City.

Daniel was 28 years old, the son of Tom Daniel, well-known singer, of East Orange, N. J. He was born in England, but was brought to this country when two years old. Both parents survive him.

ALEXANDRIA SCHOOL OPENING PLANNED

Pupils Will Assemble on September 5 to Get Book List.

ROTARY HEAD TO VISIT

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Preparations now are being made for the opening of the public schools, September 5, and announcement has been made by Supt. R. C. Bowton that on September 4 there will be a teachers' meeting, at which time instructions will be given the teachers relative to their work. The formal opening of the schools will take place the following day, at which time pupils will be assigned to the classes in which they will study during the coming scholastic year.

A list of the books required will be given the pupils the first day, and actual studies will begin the morning of September 6. Practically all teachers for the session have been chosen by the school board.

The necessary repairs to the school buildings have been completed at a cost of approximately $4,000, including renovating of all furnaces and the building for colored children at Donaldson's store, which is in the territory recently annexed from Fairfax County, has been given a new roof.

The West End School Building, which is now the property of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Association, has been repainted, and will be used to accommodate the overflow from the high school, which, it is expected, will number approximately 100 students. The Masons have granted the city the use of the building until it is required for use in connection with the new memorial temple when it will be used as a heating plant.

Dr. Julian A. Burruss, president of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va., and governor of the Fifty-sixth District of Rotary International, will pay an official visit to the Alexandria Rotary Club today, holding a conference with the officers and executive committee at 10:30 a. m., and meeting with the entire club membership at 12:30 o'clock at the weekly luncheon.

Dr. S. Nelson Gray, the local president, will preside. The program of entertainment will be omitted owing to the amount of business to be considered and the address by Dr. Burruss.

Albert Lawson, 800 Pendleton street, was dismissed in police court yesterday morning through failure of the prosecution to introduce testimony proving the alcoholic content of a tub of alleged beer found in his home when he was arrested charged with violating the prohibition law. None of the officers participating in the arrest of Lawson would testify as to the strength of the alleged beer, and Police Justice Snow dismissed the case.

The municipal swimming pool was given a thorough scouring by a force of workmen yesterday and will be ready for use again today.

The attendance at the pool, which is now in its third year of operation, is estimated at 50,000 so far this year, having increased each year since its construction. The pool is brilliantly illuminated at night, and on the recent hot evenings the attendance has been practically the full capacity.

A new railway passenger station is to be erected by the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad at the head of King street, and will be ready for use by the early part of 1932, it is understood. The officials of the company, it is reported, are planning to open the new station in time for the bicentennial celebration of Washington's Birthday, in 1932, simultaneously with the opening of the new Masonic Memorial Temple, on Shooters Hill.

The present Union Station was erected in 1905, and has been outgrown with the increase in passenger traffic.

A man giving the name of John Jones, of Washington, was arraigned in Police Court yesterday morning on a charge of being drunk and resisting arrest, and was fined $14 on the first charge, after pleading guilty, and $8 on the second charge. Police Justice Snow asked the cause of wounds on his head, and the man stated he was hit by the arresting officer, Policeman Curtis, and his wounds were dressed at the Alexandria Hospital. Justice Snow remitted the fine for resisting arrest.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gray died suddenly of an attack of heart disease yesterday morning at the home of her son, Arthur M. Gray, 328 North Columbus street. Besides the son she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Laura V. Bladen, of Cherrydale, Va.

The Business and Professional Women's Club will give its annual August picnic meeting this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Reed, at Arcturus, the members leaving Prince and Royal streets at 5:30 o'clock, by electric train.

ing," replied Bowen, "but our contention is that valuation is not a proper part of this proceeding so far as we are concerned."

"That does not answer my question, Mr. Bowen," Hartman objected. "I'll ask again. Does the company tender this exhibit as evidence of its fair value as of December 31, 1928, and does it desire the commission to consider it as such?"

The question had Bowen on the horns of a dilemma. If he said "No" then his company would have no evidence of valuation available to put into the record. If he said "Yes" he would be waiving the objections to the valuation which the company expressed in court more than a decade ago, but never did anything further about it, and again his reply, Hartman said, did not answer the question. Finally Bowen said if the commission would permit him to answer "not categorically," he would describe the valuation exhibit as showing the fair value of the company on the commission records and subsequently, after an informal discussion of the record, declared that it represented the company's opinion as to its "minimum" value.

Fleharty Interjects.

"There is no maximum or minimum valuation," Ralph B. Fleharty, people's counsel interjected, but Hartman, holding up his hand, said "don't understand the commission as making that statement."

"Isn't the valuation as shown in your first exhibit developed in identically the same manner as was followed by the Interstate Commerce Commission and which was overruled as improper by the United States Supreme Court?" Hartman asked. He asked the same question of the Capital Traction representatives on the first day of the hearing.

Bowen said that the valuation was based on previous decisions of the Utilities Commission and the commission could not question its own decisions. He quoted from the testimony of former vice chairman Harrison Brand, jr., before the House committee and cited the figures put into the record of the last car fare hearing at the request of Fleharty, by J. D. Murray, acting chief accountant of the commission at that time. But Hartman said that all of those decisions and actions had been prior to the ruling of the Supreme Court in the O'Fallon case.

"We don't claim," Bowen said, "that we have a present day valuation to show here, but in the absence of that we claim that the figures taken from the commission records must be accepted. The commission is stopped from questioning its own decision and every single individual also is stopped from challenging that valuation except those who have appealed to the courts."

"You don't mean quite what you say, do you, Mr. Bowen?" asked Hartman, and Bowen immediately qualified his declaration by explaining that everything he had said was meant only to apply to the present case.

Clayton Speaks.

William McK. Clayton, representative of the Federation of Citizens' Associations, thereupon injected the question of depreciation, declaring that there had been many objections voiced in the past to the valuation as arrived at by a method that was "not fair to the people" whose main objection is that the valuation increases over $3,000,000 with no allowance for depreciation."

The question of depreciation was touched on subsequently throughout the remainder of the day. After the lunch recess Hartman brought out his little black book filled with questions he had prepared after an exhaustive study of the company's accounts and accounting system. He had asked 24 questions dealing with the company's first exhibit when adjournment was taken until 10 o'clock this morning and has others yet to ask unless the facts desired by the commission are developed in the course of cross-examination.

Ham Asks For Time.

Ham, with the benefit of the experience of the Capital Traction Company earlier in the hearings, was better prepared to give details than John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction had been, but he, too, said he would have to have detailed studies made before answers could be given to some of the lengthy questions, and Hartman turned several pages of queries over to the stenographer to be incorporated in the record. Ham to give answers later.

Hartman touched on depreciation, declaring that he could not detect any relationship between the amounts which are charged against the company's depreciation reserve for property it retired as no longer useful and the amount which had been put into the depreciation account during the life of the retired property in service.

"There isn't any," Ham said flatly. He criticized the rates approved by the old Utilities Commission several years ago by which the company should accrue depreciation reserves, saying the commission had "made a fundamental error" in fixing these rates as it had in fixing a valuation.

But Hartman asked if it were not true that had the commission rates been followed by the company since in one particular case the depreciation reserves which would have thus accrued would have amounted to 50 per cent of the cost of one renewal job. Ham said he would check up.

Many of Hartman's questions were designed to develop the wide differences in the accounting systems and methods used by the Washington Railway and Electric and the Capital Traction companies.

miles of her goal, crossing the Straits of Taratry from Saghalien and coming down the west coast of Hokkaido, northermost of the Japanese islands, she had run into rain and fog, but it was through a smiling sky that she approached Tokio.

Naval Minister Salutes.

As she passed over Tokio the first time, Naval Minister Takerabe saluted her. She passed low enough for those on the ground to distinctly see the red letters painted on her hull and for those on board the airship to hear the German national anthem, played on the ground.

Five military and civilian planes took the air to escort the Zeppelin on the last 50 miles of her flight.

The crews of the five engine gondolas were the first of those aboard the Graf to step on Japanese soil.

The crowd rushed forward to greet them, carrying police lines before them. The passengers disembarked inside the hangar, whence they were escorted to a pavilion where the official reception was held. The ceremonies there were distinctly German in tone.

Takerabe's speech praised the skill and courage that made the flight possible. Then he expressed the hope that the flight of 5,420 miles to Los Angeles would be as successful, and proposed a toast to the ultimate safe arrival of the Graf at Lakehurst. Finally the guests sang "Deutschland uber Alles" after Dr. Eckener had proposed a totast to Emperor Hirohito.

Bomb Wrecks Residence Of Chicago Politician

Chicago, Aug. 9 (A.P.).—A powerful bomb was exploded early today under the front porch of the summer home of Lawrence F. King, county Republican leader and sanitary district trustee. The bomb wrecked the front of the house and threw King and his five children from their beds. None was injured.

It was the second time in eight months that King's home has been the target of bombers. Another bomb wrought considerable damage last December at his home in Chicago. Today's bombing was in Justice Park, a suburb of the Southwest Side, where the politician and his family are spending the summer.

250 CHINESE KILLED FIGHTING RED ARMY

9,000 Russians still remain connected with the railway in Manchuria, according to Dr. Wu.

The Chinese minister also explained to the State Department that the negotiations between the Chinese and Soviet representatives over the Chinese-Eastern Railway had broken down as a result of Russian demands which Nationalist China has refused to agree to. The Russians demand that a Russian manager and assistant manager of the railway be reinstated at once.

China maintains that the cause of the rupture has been Soviet propaganda initiated by the Russians in charge of the railway in violation of the Russo-Chinese treaty of 1924 and that reinstatement of Russian officials can not be made a condition precedent to peace negotiations. The Chinese are willing to make the Russian demands a subject of negotiation along with other questions in the controversy, but China is not willing to reinstate the Russians in advance of the conclusion of such negotiations.

Official reports to the State Department showing Soviet invasions, attacks in Chinese territory by 10,000 Soviet troops, armed with field pieces and machine guns, and the increasing casualty lists of the Chinese killed in battle all tended yesterday to focus attenton on the failure of the Kellogg pact to deter the war activities.

Dr. Wu discretely declined to say specifically whether the invasion of Russian troops and the fighting which has followed constituted a violation of the pact. He left that to the judgment of the newspaper men who questioned him. At the State Department it was conceded that the pact has no machinery for coping with a situation which follows acts of invasion or war. The question of whether the powers would attempt by concerted action to prevent the spread of the conflict was discussed informally, but no indication was given as to future attempts along that line.

League Now in Spotlight.

Failure of the Kellogg pact because of the lack of machinery to cope with the situation riveted attention on the inactivity of the League of Nations, because the league is supposed to have such machinery and the members of the league are solemnly pledged under the covenant to make use of this machinery at the first suggestion of any threat to peace. No explanation of the league's inactivity has reached here.

The two dispatches made public by the State Department yesterday, showing the invasion of Chinese territory, the consequent fighting on Chinese soil and the Chinese casualties, are as follows:

"The department has received a telegram, dated today, from Mr. George C. Hanson, the American Consul at Harbin, stating that small Soviet raiding parties have clashed with Chinese troops on Chinese territory near Manchuria Station, Lahasusu, and Pogranichnaia, and that the Chinese casualties have been about 200 so far.

"The department is in receipt of a telegram from Mr. Myrl S. Myers American Consul at Mukden, dated August 17, through the American Legation at Pieping to the effect that an official telegram from Taitsihai received by the government on Saturday afternoon stated that 10,000 Soviet troops, with 30 field pieces and machine guns, crossed the border and attacked between Manchuli and Chalainor. The report states that 50 Chinese soldiers were killed. Mr. Myers adds that a semiofficial source states that Mukden is sending 40,000 troops north, half to the western and half to the eastern front."

WOMEN'S AIR DERBY MARRED BY STRIFE

ond lap, leaving behind them hectic signs of broken planes and internal strife.

Mrs. Louise Thaden, of Pittsburgh, sped ahead of the small band of competitors, landing here at 1:04:36 p. m., mountain time, but the fast ship of Mrs. Florence Barnes, of San Marino, Calif., coming in immediately afterward, nosed her out of first place on an unofficial elapsed time basis.

Mrs. Thaden's time for the flight here from the Coast was computed at 5h. 56m. 6s., while Mrs. Barnes was credited with 5h. 54m 6s. The flight times of the other pilots and order of their arrivals were:

Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Calif., 6h. 12m. 43s.

Blanche Noyes, Cleveland, 6h. 17m. 15s.

Ruth Nichols, Rye, N. Y., 6h. 23m 5s.

Mrs. Keith Miller, New Zealand, 7h 32m. 14s.

At 1:45 p. m., mountain time, Mrs. Miller's plane was the only ship in the light class to reach Phoenix, the other five fliers being entered in the heavy class, and this distinction gave the New Zealand pilot the lead in her division.

Eight other fliers who took off from Yuma, Ariz., had not checked in here. Between here and San Bernardino, Calif., the starting point for today's lap, four planes were down. Miss Amelia Earhart, transatlantic flier, after leading the derbyists into Yuma, overshot the landing field and smashed a propeller. Claire Fahy, of Los Angeles, was forced down at Calexico, Calif., by a leaking gasoline tank; Thea Rasche, German flier, damaged her landing gear at Holtville, Calif., after a clogged carburetor had stopped her motor, and Bobbie Trout, of Los Angeles, in a forced landing near Yuma, wrecked her propeller and landing gear. All were endeavoring to have their ships repaired and continue the race.

Miss Rasche, although declining to comment on what she claimed was "dirty gasoline," showed newspapermen a telegram from a friend who warned her to "Beware of sabotage."

Another incident that upset the tranquillity of the flight for a moment occurred early today when the fliers staged a "strike" at San Bernardino, Calif., the first night stop, against a regulation which required them to land at Calexico, Calif. They protested the field there was inadequate and after considerable deliberation officials permitted them to eliminate the Calexico stop and changed it to Yuma.

Behind the main flight was another flier, Miss Mary Von Mack, of Detroit, who left Montibello, Calif., today in an effort to overtake her companions.

The contest, held in connection with the national air races at Cleveland, Ohio which begin there next week, covers a 2,800-mile route with $25,000 prizes in store for the winners. It is being sponsored by the National Exchange Clubs which are entertaining the women at each stop. The race is planned to end next Monday.

BROWN DENOUNCES COHORTS OF SMITH

Triumph for Pollard Will Men Tammany Win, Coalitionist Avers.

OUTLINES OWN PROGRAM

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 19.—The triumph of Dr. John Garland Pollard, Democratic nominee in the Virginia gubernatorial election in November, will be a "triumph for Al Smith and vindication of his crowd." Dr. William Mosley Brown, coalition candidate of the Republican and anti-Smith Democratic forces, declared here today in opening his campaign in the Shenandoah Valley. Dr. Brown addressed a court day assembly of more than 500 persons.

"The whole country is watching Virginia," he added, "and will interpret a Pollard victory as a triumph for Al Smith and his workers, with an eye turned toward the 1932 national campaign with the New Yorker again the Democratic standard bearer. The present Virginia Democratic machine stands as an ally of Al Smith before the Nation."

Dr. Brown prefaced his address with a reading of clippings interpreted as favoring the renomination of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith as the Democratic candidate for President, and pointed out that "the overthrow of such tactics as were used in the campaign last November by the Smith supporters" is an issue of the present fight.

Favors Road Program.

As for his own platform, Dr. Brown favors the continuing of the present road building program of Virginia, but with more attention to feeder and country roads, a reduction on State income taxes for incomes of $5,000 and under, and a sliding scale for incomes in excess of $5,000 to offset the loss to the State in receipts, a reduction of the tax on gasoline from 5 to 4½ cents a gallon, a reduction of automobile license, "doubling or trebling" of Confederate pensions, and demand that the people "have a voice in choosing the heads of the public school system."

Dr. Brown maintained that the people should elect the members of the local school boards as well as the State superintendent of public instruction. He declared that under the present system, the voters have no contact by the ballot with the supervision of the public schools and no way to correct any grievances. He also favors the election of the State treasurer and the commissioner of agriculture, but did not refer specifically to the so-called short ballot under which the governor now appoints these three officers.

Urges Power For People.

The present amended constitution of the State, Dr. Brown remarked, "takes power away from the people, whereas I am in favor of giving them more power because they are entitled to it and are intelligent enough to vote for what is best." His only promise to the electorate, he concluded, was that he would never stand for the tactics used by the Smith people last November.

The coalition nominee condemned the Democratic machine in the State, which, he said, has people afraid to say what they believe, and declared that Virginia's election laws badly need revision. He said he favored the primary system of nominating candidates, but was opposed to the methods used by the Democrats in Virginia.

"Where Republicans and independents are invited by the Democrats to participate in their primary," he remarked, "I see no moral obligation involved for them to support the nominee."

E. C. Wine, Rockingham anti-Smith chairman last fall, introduced Dr. Brown and asserted that Al Smith and Raskobism are dominant issues in the present campaign.

Poolrooms Licensed After Court Refusal

Special to The Washington Post.

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., Aug. 19.—Poolroom operators in the incorporated towns of Berkeley Springs and Paw Paw, hitherto denied licenses to operate by the county court, which cited as authority an attorney general's ruling that the county court was final authority, won a point today when the State tax commissioner's office sent a special agent here and issued licenses to three rooms which come within the incorporated city lines.

The tax commissioner cited a provision which excepted incorporated towns and made them final authority. Whether the county court, which refused licenses July 1 to places because of objections, will intervene was not indicated.

How to keep COOL

Hot weather calls for light, crisp foods. Eat delicious Kellogg's Corn Flakes at least once a day in summer. A bowlful, with cool milk or cream, supplies nourishment without "heating" the body. Kellogg's are one of the most healthful treats your grocer has. So crisp and easy to digest they really help you feel cool.

Kellogg's Corn Flakes are wonderfully inviting three meals a day. Ideal for the children's supper. Add fresh or canned fruits or honey.

Always insist on Kellogg's, the original Corn Flakes. 12,000,000 people daily prefer them. Always extra crisp.

Look for the red-and-green package. At grocers. Served by hotels, restaurants, on dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Oven-fresh in the patented waxtite wrapper.

MARTIN IS URGED FOR COUNTY POST

Picked for Prince Georges Commissioner by State Democratic Body.

WOMAN ASSAILED IN CAR

Charles Martin, of Oxon Hill, has been recommended for appointment as county commissioner for Prince Georges County to Gov. Albert C. Ritchie by the Democratic State central committee, it became known yesterday. The recommendation is tantamount to appointment, according to political leaders, who say the governor rarely refuses to name a man recommended by the committee.

The recommendation was made Saturday night at a meeting of the committee called by the chairman, George Palmer, of Seat Pleasant. Martin is to fill the vacancy on the board left by the death of County Commissioner Theodore B. Middleton, who died August 7. Commissioner Middleton also was from the Oxon Hill District.

Mr. Martin is an ardent Democrat and has worked in the interest of that party since he became old enough to vote. He is a native of Oxon Hill neighborhood, having been born several miles from the present residence 68 years ago. He is a bachelor. Mr. Martin is a real dirt farmer and proud of it. It was expected that the governor would sign his commission yesterday. Whether the commission will arrive in time to permit him to be inducted into office and sit with the board today is problematical.

Mr. Martin's only political office prior to this has been that of transfer clerk at the Upper Marlboro Courthouse, in which capacity he served from 1916 to 1920. When his name was suggested to the committee it was heartily and unanimously approved.

While seated in her automobile in front of the Atlantic & Pacific store in Riverdale yesterday evening, Mrs. Henry Hartley, of University Park, wife of Capt. Henry Hartley, submarine expert at the Washington Navy Yard, was attacked and roughly shaken by a man giving the name of E. J. Hintz, of Riverdale, police say.

Passersby intervened and held the man until County Policeman Claude Reese arirved and placed him under arrest. Hintz was taken to the Bladensburg jail to await a preliminary hearing tomorrow before Judge J. Chew Sheriff in Hyattsville branch of Prince Georges County Police Court on charges of assault and battery. According to police, he told them that he intended criminally attacking Mrs. Hartley.

Arthur D. Hartog, of Berwyn, Md., a painter, yesterday fell 20 feet from the roof of the home of Senator Thomas D. Schall, of Minneapolis, Minn., where he was painting, and fractured his leg.

The Bladensburg squad of the Prince Georges County Rescue Squad responded to a call for assistance and gave first aid. Hartog was then taken to Providence Hospital in the squad ambulance. This is the second time Hartog has fallen while at work.

James A. Jenkins, of Beltsville, Md., was seriously injured yesterday when a truck he was driving was in collision with a banana-laden truck, driven by Charles Suggs, 928 Florida avenue northwest, at Beltsville on the Baltimore pike. Jenkins was given first aid by members of the Prince Georges County Rescue Squad and taken to Casualty Hospital in the squad ambulance. He is believed to have a fractured skull.

Suggs was placed under bond by Justice of the Peace George S. Phillips, of Berwyn, pending the outcome of Jenkins' injuries. According to police, Jenkins was driving a light truck loaded with cement blocks from the Standard Oil Co. gasoline station at Beltsville when his truck was struck by the banana truck owned by Sam Neidorf, of Washington, a commission merchant on Louisiana avenue. Jenkins' truck was practically demolished. Two small children of Jenkins were riding on the truck with him. They escaped injury.

Baking Company Sued in Assault

Woman Says Driver Laid Hands on Her and Bruised Her.

As the result of an assault which she alleges was committed on her August 20, 1928, by Fred Childs, an employe of the Continental Baking Co., of 2301 Georgia avenue northwest, Mrs. Charlotte W. Gabriel, of Fairfax County, Va., filed suit in District Supreme Court yesterday against the baking company seeking to recover $15,000 damages.

The plaintiff tells the court that on the date mentioned Childs came to her home for the purpose of collecting 84 cents which she owed for bakery products. She asserts that when she handed him the money he embraced her and laid his hands on her causing her to be wounded and bruised.

She asserts that at the time she was nursing her two-months-old baby and the injuries and the shock caused her excruciating pain and resulted in the impairment of her speech. She states that she now stutters when she talks and that she is embarrassed in the presence of other persons.

FINE COLONIAL HOME IN MARYLAND BURNS

Loss Estimated at $30,000 as Residence of Mrs. Murray Is Razed.

BUILDING 150 YEARS OLD

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 19.—Woodstock, the fine colonial home of Mrs. Alexander Murray, near Owensville, lower Anne Arundel County, was destroyed by flames this afternoon. Neighbors succeeded in saving practically all of the house furnishings, many of which were antique and of great value. The loss is estimated at $30,000.

The origin of the blaze is undetermined. Smoke and flames were first discovered issuing from the side of the structure near the chimney leading from the dining room, although there was no fire in that part of the house. No one was at home except a colored servant, as Mrs. Murray is away on a vacation. There had been a light fire in the kitchen range, according to the servant, who discovered the blaze and spread the alarm. Firemen responded, but were powerless to render aid by their booster pumps as the cistern well was at low water and a nearby stream was practically dry due to the long drought.

The dwelling, one of the few old-time frame structures in this part of the country, was built more than a century and a half ago by the ancestors of Alexander Murray as a hunting lodge, and had been in the family ever since. It was staunchly built, contained a dozen large rooms, large hallways and green house, and with its surroundings was one of the beauty spots of rural Maryland.

C., have been touring this section with the idea of writing a history of Abraham Johnson and his descendants, the Hutsons, Reeses, Rineharts, Carskadons and many others in this section, descendants of Johnson, who settled in Patterson's Creek in 1748. Mr. Davis, who was born near Headsville, Mineral County, W. Va., and not far from the birthplace of Nancy Hanks, the mother of Abraham Lincoln, conducted a private school at Moorefield, W. Va., for many years.

Danville to Sell Its Power Plant

Commission to Get Report of Subcommittee at Meeting Tonight.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Aug. 19.—The City Power Commission, appointed nearly three months ago to study the sale of the city-owned gas and electric properties, has been called to meet tomorrow night to hear a report from its subcommittee. This report will recommend that bids be taken for either or both of the municipal plants and that if a sale is made that the money be used to retire the city's bonded indebtedness aggregating $3,000,000, any surplus to be established as a trust fund for public schools and the municipal water plant, now being run at a loss.

The franchise to be recommended has a provision that in the event the buying corporation, or the State Corporation Commission, raises the prevailing rates that Danville would be under no obligation to buy power from the private concern but could resume municipal ownership. The subcommittee will recommend that the flat purchase price be not the sole determining factor but that collateral bonds, such as new industries use, be taken into consideration. If the commission adopts the recommendations they will be submitted to the council, a public referendum to be taken on the methods deemed most suitable.

Corn Canneries Open 1929 Season

Third Successive Short Crop Is Forecast by Growers.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Aug. 19.—The corn canning season at the factories throughout the county has started and within the next week factories will present a busy appearance. While the season will be short, hundreds of persons will be given employment for the next four or five weeks.

It will be the third short season in succession, due to protracted spells of dry weather.

The normal acreage of factory corn in this county is between 9,000 and 10,000 with an average yield of about two tons to the acre. The factories are paying from $15 to $15.50 per ton this year, against $13 per ton last year. It is estimated that the average yield this year will be very little, if any more, than one ton per acre. This estimate is based on reports from different growers, who place their crop from 50 to 60 per cent of the normal.

A normal crop at $15 per ton would amount to $285,000. The estimate placed on this year's yield will mean a return of about $145,000.

Large Filling Station Begun in Leonardtown

Special to The Washington Post.

Leonardtown, Md., Aug. 19.—Morris Thrift and George S. Miles, of Leonardtown, are erecting a large filling and service station at Washington Boulevard and Lawrence avenue in the north end of Leonardtown. William C. Freeman, contractor at St. Clements Shores, has contract to build it.

The plans call for entrances and exits on the boulevard and a 40-foot driveway on Lawrence avenue. The building will contain a modern tea room, waiting room, washing and greasing stand and a concrete driveway and parking space of approximately 75 by 60 feet.

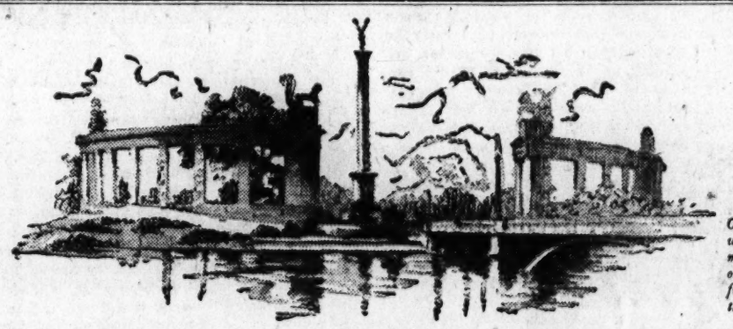
ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

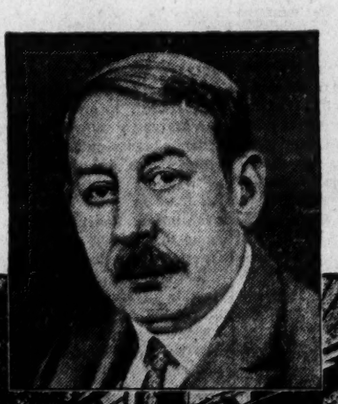


One naturally thinks of exquisite women when the picturesque city of Budapest is mentioned. So many lovely women of our own stage and screen came originally from this Hungarian city on the banks of the Beautiful Blue Danube.

"It is a mistake to use any other soap!"

says ECHTEN of Budapest

Beauty specialist to the leading actresses and opera singers of The Royal Opera House



Francis Echten has been associated with The Royal Opera of Hungary during his entire 40 years as beauty specialist in Budapest.

Francis Echten, Junior, is following in his father's footsteps. He, too, finds Palmolive of invaluable aid in keeping complexions fresh and lovely between salon treatments.

Most tremendous endorsement any product ever had! Just think! 16,512 beauty experts, in America alone, advise the regular use of Palmolive Soap.

"WHENEVER I give a treatment in my salon," says Francis Echten, of Budapest, "I add the advice to cleanse the skin twice daily with Palmolive Soap!"

This advice is particularly interesting because both Echten and his son are distinguished in coiffure and complexion care. Francis Echten holds a diploma as Professor of Beautifying, Hungary; Akademie de Damenfrieier Kunst, Vienna; Establissements Chabrier, Paris. He has won three awards in competitions, two medals of gold and one of silver.

Every day father and son attend to the coiffures and complexions of the Artistes at The Royal Opera House. Echten, Senior, has been associated with The Royal Opera during the entire 40 years of his career as head of the Maison Echten.

All European experts agree

Throughout Middle Europe and the Continent, beauty specialists are unanimous in their recommendation of Palmolive Soap. All the great Parisian experts find it "the best way to keep the skin in a smooth, healthy condition."

And in America more than 16,500 experts tell their patrons to follow this same advice: massage a bland, creamy lather of Palmolive Soap into the pores for two minutes. Rinse, first with warm water, then with cold. Occasionally, an ice facial is refreshing. Now—and not before—apply your make-up.

Try that simple treatment this evening. Use Palmolive for your bath too. Then wonder why you ever used any other, since this costs no more than ordinary soap.

"Whenever I give a treatment in my salon, I add the advice to cleanse the skin twice daily with Palmolive Soap. Nothing else, in my experience, so thoroughly removes all the tiny particles that collect and clog up the pores, and unless all this accumulation is removed regularly no amount of treatment can really keep the skin youthful and healthy."

LAKEHURST TO TOKYO.

The future of the Zeppelin as a commercial carrier lies largely in the hands of Dr. Eckener, head of the Zeppelin works, and builder and master of the Graf Zeppelin. If, with the Graf, an admittedly imperfect ship, he is able to demonstrate to the world that the Zeppelin is both safe and speedy the future is bound to witness increased interest in the development of lighter-than-air craft. It was for the purpose of demonstrating the practicability of the Zeppelin that the Graf was constructed and the three flights to America undertaken. It is to provide incontrovertible proof of her airworthiness and safety that the flight around the world was scheduled.

Today the Graf Zeppelin lies in her hangar near Tokyo, the second and most dangerous leg of the round-the-world flight safely behind her. Last Wednesday she left her home port at Friedrichshafen. Thursday she crossed over into Russia, Friday and Saturday she was over Siberia, Sunday she crossed over into Japan and early Monday morning she dropped down on Kasumigaura airport, 40 miles northeast of Tokyo. The 6,500-mile voyage was completed in slightly less than 102 hours, some 18 hours ahead of the schedule set by Dr. Eckener.

In her flight to Tokyo the Graf Zeppelin flew as easily and as swiftly as in her flight from Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen. The 4,200 miles that separate her American and German ports were covered in less than 56 hours. Thus far in her trip around the world the Graf has covered close to 11,000 miles of territory in an elapsed time of 158 hours, or at an average rate of better than 67 miles an hour. No commercial vessel has ever approached such speed.

On Thursday, according to present plans, the Graf takes flight for California. The transpacific journey, according to Dr. Eckener, will not be difficult. From California the Graf will fly across the continent to Lakehurst, starting point of the round-the-world flight.

Dr. Eckener is proving to a world that heretofore has been inclined to look upon lighter-than-air craft with skepticism that the dirigible is not an ungainly, unmanageable gas bag. No airplane could have duplicated her flights from Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen and from Friedrichshafen to Tokyo. Her transpacific and transcontinental flights will be watched with interest. If they are completed as swiftly and as easily as the others the Zeppelin will have arrived commercially.

PRISON RELIEF.

The recent prison outbreaks have resulted in what might be termed a campaign for more and better prisons. Surveys of both Federal and State institutions show that they are seriously overcrowded. The situation has received attention throughout the country and efforts are being made to expand old prisons or build new ones. President Hoover has asked Congress for $5,000,000 to improve Federal penitentiaries. The movement may be considered a corollary of the law enforcement campaign.

Another phase of the problem is presented by Charles L. Chute, of the National Probation Association. He points out that prison population is far larger than it should be because of inadequate arrangements for paroling Federal prisoners. Only 7 out of 98 Federal judicial districts have probation officers. Some of the other districts are served by volunteers, but their work has not been satisfactory. Judges in many parts of the country are requesting trained probation officers. If, by granting these requests, the Government could reduce its prison population and at the same time restore hundreds of men to productive life without endangering society this solution would be far preferable to enlargement of prison facilities.

Pittsburgh's probation officer estimates that he has saved the Government $25,000 on the probationers under his direction during the last year. If 25 per cent of the prisoners who enter Federal institutions each year were eligible for parole the saving on this same basis would amount to almost $500,000 per year. The cost, however, is only one small phase of the question. The real test of any penal system lies in whether or not it reclaims prisoners not yet in the incorrigible class.

There is a tendency throughout the country to deal severely with habitual criminals. The Baumes law against fourth offenders in New York was blamed for the two most serious recent prison outbreaks. If this policy is to be maintained there must be provision to care for the increased number of long-time prisoners and there must also be provision for reclaiming first offenders. Under existing conditions the Government, by placing first offenders in unfavorable environments, is contributing to its own difficulties. The policy of dealing severely with incorrigibles should be supplemented by extending every opportunity for recuperation to first offenders. This need could be largely supplied by a probation system under direction of experts. The policy of bigger prisons and more severe sentences will defeat its own purpose unless adequate provision is made for dealing with men and women who may be diverted from crime.

FOR BETTER ENFORCEMENT.

George W. Wickersham's suggestion that the Government confine its enforcement of prohibition to prevention of smuggling, regulation of industrial alcohol and other interstate aspects of the law has leavened the whole prohibition controversy. This is evident from the discussion on this subject at the Institute of Public Affairs. The whole argument now centers on the section of the eighteenth amendment which gives the Federal and State Legislatures concurrent authority to keep the country dry.

The issue was clear-cut in most of the principal addresses. Prohibition Commissioner Doran and Wade H. Ellis, former Assistant Attorney General, were among those taking the position that the States are obligated to carry their share of the responsibility of enforcing the amendment, and Gov. Ritchie of Maryland appeared as champion of those who deny that the States have any obligation to enforce a Federal law. Mr. Doran said there is no doubt as to the duty of the States to "exercise in their appropriate sphere of action" their full police powers. His admission that a great deal of Federal effort has been dissipated in a futile attempt to discharge the detailed police powers of the States is encouraging. After ten years in which the Government has been principally responsible for prohibition enforcement, officials concede that the police power is an inherent right of the States and that that right must be exercised by the States if the antiliquor law is to be a success.

Mr. Ellis takes the position that the Federal Government, without relinquishing any of its powers, should put up to the States the primary duty of suppressing local traffic in intoxicants. The obligation upon Congress and upon the States is exactly the same, he contends, and the prohibition act is as binding on the States as if it were a part of State law. The remedy he suggests is that the Government withdraw all aid and activity in the suppression of purely local infractions of the law from those States which either have no enforcement statutes or make no attempt to enforce the statutes they have. This should be done, he says, in such a clear, courageous and unmistakable way as to serve notice upon every State and community that they alone are primarily responsible for the arrest and punishment of bootleggers, the closing of saloons, and expulsion of petty traffickers who defy the law.

This would amount to a restoration of the police power to the States where it belongs. But whether it would stimulate to action those States which now do nothing to prevent their citizens from satisfying a thirst, is problematical. Mr. Ellis is of the opinion that withdrawal of all restraint on the liquor traffic in such localities would arouse a sense of local responsibility, but it is safe to conclude that such an arrangement would leave many a wet spot on the map.

Every suggestion for cooperation of the Federal and State governments is confronted with the enigma of five States refusing to cooperate. What can be done about it? Congress has no authority to require the State Legislatures to do anything. It is the duty of all American citizens to obey Federal law, but the general practice is for the Government to enforce its own statutes and the States to enforce theirs. No State, Gov. Ritchie points out, is called upon to provide enforcement machinery for the Federal income tax law, the narcotic or the Mann acts. As long as some States are indifferent to prohibition, Federal officers must either assume local police duties or leave large areas free to engage in liquor traffic.

Both the expression which followed publication of Mr. Wickersham's letter and the discussion at the Institute suggests that whatever solution is arrived at the States will be given a greater measure of control over local administration. Reallocation of the responsibility so that the Government would cope with smuggling and interstate transportation and the States would deal with the bootlegger and speakeasy would no doubt leave the country far from the "bone-dry" ideal of the radicals, but it would certainly be an improvement over the present situation.

WHAT IS AFFECTION WORTH?

Breach of promise and alienation of affection suits seem to be on the increase. Such cases are continually in the public eye, and invariably the plaintiff asks for damages in large amount. Some of the suits, of course, are justified. In other cases they are palpably instituted by adventurers who seek only an opportunity to make easy money. Whether or not the majority of cases are justified is a disputable question. The Law Notes Magazine thinks they are not. In a leading editorial published recently it asserts that "whatever may have been the original justification for suits of alienation of affection and breach of promise, they are wholly at variance with modern law and at war with legal rules applied to every other action." The editorial refers to suits pending and adjudicated and says: "In the first place all litigation of this sort is wholly speculative; the rule otherwise obtaining that damages shall represent compensation for such loss as can be measured by some reasonably definite standard is thrown to the winds. As a result, damages in extravagant sums are claimed. It is difficult to see on what theory courts reconcile the allowance of damages with the general rules on speculative damages."

There is good sense in this contention. Who is to say what may be the value of affection in dollars and cents? In the case of a suit for loss sustained in the death of a wage earner, the court can estimate fairly accurately the wage earner's potential worth, but there is no yardstick that can be used to measure the financial value of affection. But the measure of damages is not the only aspect of such suits that Law Notes finds subject to criticism.

Allowance of damages for alienation, it says, "is based on a fiction of feminine nonentity which is certainly foreign to the social and political status of today." The editorial continues: "Out of the theory that a wife is a chattel grew, logically enough, the doctrine that her affections were property, and that one who converted them to his own use was liable. The existence of actual affection is beside the point; the marriage certificate is deemed a perpetual title deed. With women placed on the same footing with men before the law, the reason of the former rule has failed."

It remains to be seen whether or not a note has been struck that will lead to action. Many suits for alienation of affection and breach of promise are blackmail, pure and simple, and the courts in giving them a hearing become party to a perversion of justice. Sensible restrictions should be worked out so that only justifiable suits can be brought before the courts; but it will not be easy to revise existing practice to this end.

OLD AND MODERN NEWSPAPERS

By OLD-TIMER.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Using a nice, new, highbrow word, I was much "intrigued" by the observations on the decadence of American journalism by a distinguished gentleman enunciated at the University of Virginia round table and widely published to the extent of two columns or more. Having been actively in the newspaper game in this country more than 50 years and having enjoyed exceptional opportunities for studying newspaper history, I venture remarks on the subject.

The conclusions of the gentleman to whom I refer are melancholy. He finds that the newspapers have become standardized, machinized; are devoid of the individuality that once made them great; and fall more and more under control of business interests.

Cold truth is that through the early years of this Republic half the newspapers were owned and their editorial policies and utterances directed by groups of politicians and the other half were servile tools of whatever Federal administration was in power. The Library of Congress has the largest collection of newspaper files in the country. Most of those bearing dates to the middle of the nineteenth century are directed to the Secretary of State, dispenser of advertising patronage of the Federal Government. I have before me as I write one of these files, year 1818, six of its 24 columns filled with Federal Government advertising, including acts of Congress, public land sales, letting of post routes. So it runs in most of them and the year through. The number of Federalist newspapers which disappeared and of Democratic newspapers born in 1829, when Jackson became President, is illuminating on this point.

There was individuality all right, continuing, in parts, of the country, well into the eighties. Editors won fame by abusing each other personally and atrociously, with an occasional duel or shooting or raw-hiding or caning episode. In the first twelve years of my own editorial experience a Navy revolver covered with an exchange was part of the desk furniture invariably. Its moral support was valuable many times, its actual production and appearance useful on several occasions. The fashion of the time in journalism demanded individuality, which could be asserted satisfactorily only by denouncing somebody every day and preparing to take the consequences. The first newspaper on which I worked was edited by an individualist who had killed his man and apparently was anxious to maintain his reputation by killing another. Individualism ran through the establishment. Each printer kept a quart of whisky under his case and made it a rule to be somewhat drunk at knocking off time each morning and roaring drunk Sunday morning and through Sunday.

It was all exciting and interesting at the time and funny to look back on, but not conducive to the public welfare or morals or the dignity of the profession. I believe if the newspapers of the forties and fifties could have been owned, conducted and managed as are those of today the Civil War would have been avoided. The more important dailies are business enterprises, operated on business principles, as they should be. Few editors undertake to be startling or to thrust their personalities before the public, but almost invariably they write good sense from their respective viewpoints and do it in plain English which all can understand and without volleys of exclamation points and paragraphs of italics and Latin quotations with which the famous individualists used to storm.

I can not remember ever to have seen such a monotonous dribble of dismal and dreary drivel as has come to the public from this series of cloister meditations at the Virginia University. Not one of the intellectuals seems to have suspected that this country is a success—the greatest success of a human institution in all history. Not one has presented a practical suggestion for an improvement. The journalistic Jeremiah who has concentrated his talent on two weeklies of opposing politics in southwestern Virginia is like the others. He fails to indicate how we may return to the fine old days of bluster and buncombe and brilliancy and bullets and columns of Government and local official advertisements for payment of running expenses—with countless other columns of lottery, saloon and patent medicine advertisements so filthy that any business office would reject them now. Like the others, he gives us no glimpse of a time we may study and imitate as the golden age of American journalism or politics or general life.

Everybody concedes that everything may be improved. The fact is the newspaper business improves steadily every year, gives the public wonderful value for its money in every respect and probably has improved and progressed faster than any other enterprise in the country.

What the newspapers of the country were 80 and 90 years ago is told quite accurately by Dickens in "Martin Chuzzlewit and His American Notes."

Large gobs of gloom are useful now and then, as night and shade are useful; but we really live in sunlight and this is a sunlit time, becoming continually brighter. The more clearly we realize that the happier and more sensible we will be.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

WE RECEIVE AN ANNIVERSARY PRESENT.

Oh shock of shocks! within a box
I found two pair of golfing socks.
And tied to them a card to say:
"Best wishes on your wedding day!"
In three and twenty years of bliss
My first and only gift is this!

All other presents, need I tell
Have been received by lovely Nell.
They've given us handkerchiefs and hose,
A painted bowl to hold a rose;
A center-piece of Irish lace,
A string of beads; a jewel case.

Through three and twenty lovely Junes
They've given us wooden salad spoons,
Initialed towels; picture frames
And score pads for our auction games;
A bedroom lamp, a nightgown pink
And soap containers for the sink.

My blessings on you sister fair,
For you this is my evening prayer:
"Good Lord, at night and through the day
Be gracious unto Florence May,
The path she treads with blossoms strew
And let her fondest dreams come true.

"Make light her burdens, grant her wealth,
Endow her with the gift of health,
For once upon our wedding day
She bought two pairs of golf socks gay,
And wrote that they were meant to be
An anniversary gift for me."

Will a Bank Employ a Teller Who Is a Tool of Gangsters?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ALL men who write for the public prints get occasional letters from suspicious people who charge them with writing propaganda for hire.

The letter writers invariably are ill-bred and ignorant.

Their ill breeding is evidenced by their willingness to insult, at long range, one whose sole offense is that he does not echo their opinions. They exercise their own right to hold and advocate opinions, and would be quick to resent any doubt of their sincerity; but while millions equally sincere hold contrary opinions, they think the writer who disagrees with them must be the hired agent of corruption.

Their ignorance is evidenced by their assumption that reputable newspapers are so simple as to serve as mouthpieces for the wily propagandist.

All newspapers are flooded with press matter cleverly designed to advance some cause or interest, and their unwillingness to open their columns to such proselyting is so well known that persons and groups eager to get their plea in print contrive some subtle way to camouflage or sugar coat it in the hope that its innocent appearance will enable it to get by the watchful editor.

Frank and above-board propaganda, contributed free or paid for at the usual rate, is given space because it is in line with the publication's avowed policy, because the writer is of sufficient prominence to make his opinion worth while as news, or because the publication habitually presents both sides of moot questions as information.

But newspapers and magazines do not buy the product of a writer who has an ax to grind. If he has a wen, he may be either a paid propagandist or a mere crank; in either case he is a bore and a trouble maker. Editors avoid him as a pestilence.

The writer, like the farmer and the banker, does the thing he can do best and exchanges his product for things he needs.

His product, like the canner's, must be above reproach to find and keep a market.

The fact that merchants continue to buy and sell any food product is proof to any sensible person that the product is free of poison.

The fact that editors continue to buy and print any writer's product is proof to any sensible person that the product is free of guile, offensive partisanship and bought opinion.

Open propaganda is legitimate. It is entitled to such space as it can buy or beg.

But any person who believes a professional writer can prostitute his pen and then persuade hard-boiled editors to pay him for his treachery is too simple to be abroad without a guardian.

SEA CHANTIES FOR STOCK PLAYERS AT SEA.

(With the Usual Apologies.)

I.

I must go down to the seas again, to the lonely sea and the sky,
And all I ask is a smart ship where the stock quotations fly,
And the wheel's kick and the wind's song and the green seas roaring,
And a gray mist on the sea's face, and the market soaring.

II.

I must go down to the seas again, for the call of the running tide
Is a wild call and a clean call that can not be denied,
And all I ask is a bullish day with the blue chips flying—
And the flung spray and the blown spume and the Morgans buying.

III.

I must go down to the seas again, to the vagabond gipsy life
Where the bulls play and the bears play and the wind's like a whetted knife,
And all I ask is an inside tip from a passenger imposing,
And a good rise and a sweet gain at the markets' closing.

* * * *

A tip sheet and a flowing sea,
A board that follows fast,
And give the white and speeding ship
The "high" and "low" and "last."
There's tempest in the horned moon
And lightning in it, too;
But what care I if I can get
My market orders through?

* * * *

A life on the ocean wave,
A home in the rolling deep,
Where the touring gamblers roar
Of the stocks that they should keep;
Like an eagle caged I pine
On this dull and chaining shore;
Oh, give me the flashing brine—
And a tip from a stevedore!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Traffic Takes a Greater Toll Than War—Large Buildings Should Be Constructed With Arcades, So That Pedestrians Would Be Kept Off the Streets.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: While disarmament and the prevention of war is an absorbing topic of public interest, there is a greater menace to human life in the street traffic of American cities.

As a matter of fact, there have been nearly as many killed, maimed and crippled as in the World War in the streets of the larger cities of the United States. In New York City alone, in 1928, there were 1,000 killed and more than 43,000 crippled, many for life.

As the streets of Washington and other cities are already taxed to the limit, and can neither be enlarged nor extended, and as vehicles and pedestrians are constantly increasing at a remarkable rate, it is only a question of time when as many will have been killed as have been killed in all the wars in American history unless ways and means are found to provide separate crossings for pedestrians and vehicles.

Washington is fast becoming one of the great cities. It is the Paris or Rome of America, and as all roads lead to Washington the influx of tourists and strangers presents a difficult problem for our officials. It is due to their constant vigilance that accidents have been kept down below other cities of the same size and population.

Let me make one suggestion. When large buildings occupying a full block are constructed, there should be a passageway or arch inserted for pedestrians to pass through. These could be made highly profitable with small booths and offices on the sides and they would reduce congestion on the corners and likewise reduce accidents. THEO. G. THOMAS.

President Hoover Does Well in Refusing to Receive Letters First Given to the Press.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: President Hoover is making steady progress in curbing the activities of publicity seekers at the White House. Will you allow me sufficient space in your columns to congratulate him?

First came the announcement that the White House would no longer be "the springboard to publicity." People who make a practice of advertising their schemes by a visit to the President were cut off. Then came Mr. Hoover's refusal to see the delegates of the National Association Opposed to Blue Laws, which was based simply on his desire to remain free from the kind of controversy in which these delegates would have involved him. Now the President has announced through his secretary that no attention will be given to letters addressed to the President if they have been given publicity before their receipt and acknowledgment.

A quotation from the letter of George Akerson, Mr. Hoover's secretary, to the president of the anti-blue laws association epitomizes the argument against premature publicity on letters to the White House. "This office," he wrote, "no longer receives letters addressed to the President which are given publicity prior to their receipt and acknowledgment. I think upon consideration you will agree that this course should be followed because the office of the President of the United States is entitled to the same courtesy that is universally accorded between ladies and gentlemen in such matters. This in no way limits the right of any citizen to express to the press any opinion he may hold. It is simply an insistence that the office of the President shall not be treated with discourtesy." This common-sense plan of the President will be applauded by all people considerate of the many responsibilities he holds. H. R. WARDER.

Streets Should Not Be Used for Garages, but What Can Be Done About It?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish to take issue with those who condemn the use of the streets as public garages. Of course, cars should not be left on the streets but what are we going to do about it? This city is so constructed that it is impossible to have a garage for every car. We may as well accept conditions as they are without complaint because it is impossible to change them.

In most cities and in the suburbs of Washington, all blocks have an intersecting alley, but in the older parts of Washington where live the families of moderate means, all one sees around the block is a line of front doors opening either directly onto the street or into a "2 x 4" yard. Even such homes are priced so high that it will be financially impossible to ever readjust the entire city along the necessary lines. J. L. JONES.

EDUCATED TARS.

By accident, as it were, the United States has been "improving" the personnel of its Navy, says the New Orleans Times-Picayune. The thought naturally arises that it would have been better had this "improvement" come about through intent, but that is another matter. The improvement appears to be seen in that there is an increasing percentage of educated sailors on the rolls, and it is assumed that a mariner with more book learning is superior to his illiterate fellow. We are not quite willing to accept that, as, if the uneducated are ipso facto shy on fighting quality, we can not help wondering why and how our own Navy and that of Great Britain managed to do so well at a time when most of the enlisted or impressed sailors had to sign with their mark. However, if the Navy officials believe that a man with a little arithmetic and some spelling can carry shells and powder to the turret guns better than the ignoramus, we will not question their faith in schooling. The reason assigned for the chance improvement is that the Navy enlistment has dropped so low that the selection of recruits has been more thorough and, before a man has been selected, it may have been found out that his mother wrote verse for the school journal or that his dad penned his own grocery advertisements.

Flower Dance At Skyland Is Drawing Card

Mountain Resort in Blue Ridge Rendezvous for Capital Folk.

SKYLAND, in the famous Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia, was the week-end resort to which many Washingtonians repaired last week—and, truth to tell, some of them are still there, riding across the mountain trails and swimming in the mountain rills. While Rehoboth Beach and Atlantic City and Cape May and Virginia Beach and Monterey claimed their usual quota of those Capital residents who have been remaining near Washington this month, it is safe to predict that Skyland was the objective of more week-enders than usual.

One reason was the annual flower ball of that resort, which took place Saturday night in its usual colorful setting. Sheaths of golden glow, accentuated by pastel tinted dahlias of immense size, concealed the rustic columns of the hall where the dance was held. The postoffice in one corner assumed the aspect of a tiny Swiss chalet nestling among the shrubbery of a small garden. Overhead were suspended Japanese lanterns, while walls, windows and doorways were adorned with colorful decorations.

The dance was ushered in with a fanfare of bugles, the three regular buglers of Skyland Camp and ranch buglers being supplemented by Lawrence Hurdle, of Washington, official bugler at the Fall meet of the Laurel races. The ball opened with a grand march, led by Mr. George Freeman Pollock, owner of Skyland, with Mrs. Edward Grassell, of Cleveland. During this march the judges made their decisions in regard to the various prizes offered by Mr. Pollock. The prize for the most beautiful costume in official flowers was won by Miss Mary Scott Morris, of Washington, as an orchid, and the most artistic child's costume prize was awarded to Miss Punka Holmes, also of this city. Mrs. E. H. Croxton was another prize winner. Mr. Charles Carroll Morgan and Mr. Walter Chappell were among the Washingtonians who took part in the festival.

Among others who were present were Miss Temple Perry, Miss Margaret Winship, Miss Mary Davis, Mrs. J. A. G. Pennington and Mrs. Edwin W. Spalding, of Washington; Mrs. Harry W. Hunter and Miss Sarah Harrison Powell, of Baltimore; Mrs. Unit Rasin, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Basil Jones, of Richmond.

DEAREST GENEVIEVE:
You'll be seeing me soon, dearie, so this will be the briefest possible little letter. So much has happened, which I can not tell you here, but shall wait to tell you first hand.
Hardly any gossip along the marts of trade, but there will be soon, and then you will be surprised at all the new things which have come up since you last went shopping.

Luxurious Cruises Around the World
—have now become a matter of course. However, certain cruises offer more luxurious accomodations than others. Some are arranged to better advantage, and in some you enjoy more for the same expenditure than in others.

When planning such a trip, the best thing to do is to go in to the C. C. Drake Travel Bureau in the Willard Hotel and talk to Miss Moorhead about it. If you want to join a party, it is always possible, as any number of people simply start out that way and find their friends in the adventures of travel.

A Good Place To Live In
—is the Cavalier Hotel, 3500 14th street. The Cavalier has charming apartments at a most moderate tariff. There are one room and on up to six-room apartments.

There is a good cafe in the hotel, too. It attracts not only people who live around there, but others from all over town. For it is certain once you have enjoyed the good food of this cafe and the pleasant environment, you will come back again and again.
During the hot weather, every housewife should take her family out for dinner two or three times a week, and this is a good place to choose, because the prices are so small.

Always Something New to See
—when you go in Underwood & Underwood's. Believe it or not, I look forward with the greatest pleasure to my visits each week to this famous studio. The atmosphere of the place is so inviting and cordial and there is always the pleasant anticipation of seeing what is new in this most interesting of arts.
Yesterday I saw a new style that will be offered soon for the Christmas trade. (Whew! Doesn't it seem funny to think tbout Christmas?) The new style is called "The Mayfair." It is just as exclusive and smart at the swank section of London for which it is named.
They tell me at Underwood and Underwood's that this is the most expensive picture they have ever put out, but regardless of price, it is worth anything they might ask for it.

Reduced Prices On Lovely Lamps
—at Martin's have placed some beautiful designs at a figure so low you can scarcely afford to ignore them. Shades are half price, and so are lamp bases, at least some of them. Other lamp bases are reduced 25 per cent. They are of China and Italian pottery and glass, and are too attractive to resist.

The 25 per cent discount on service plates still prevails and there are some handsome patterns remaining. Do go in and select a dozen. You will never regret it, and the opportunity will not last forever as you well know.
Mr. Martin will be returning soon, and I suppose will have the loveliest crystal and glass ever seen in Washington. I believe this is the first personal buying trip he has made to Paris and Vienna since he opened the store here in Washington, and it will be interesting to see just what unusual and wonderful selections he has made.
Martin's, 1317 Connecticut Avenue.

High Up on The Powhatan Roof
—in the cool breezes of any balmy summer evening you will find pleasure-loving Washington enjoying the good food, the peppy dancing and the inspiring view which this place alone affords.

You would not wish for any more delightful place to spend an evening than the Powhatan roof, and you become so attached to it, and so fond of going there, that it develops into a pleasant habit. Dinner is served from 6:30 and there is no cover charge until 9 o'clock, then it is only $1, so you see what a very inexpensive evening it can be, if that matters to you, and I suppose it does. It makes a difference with most people.

NEW CHARGE MADE IN PLOT ON OIL MAN

Hyde, Held in Poisoning Attempt, to Be Accused of Two Forgeries.

PLANS BARED BY RUSE

Ponca City, Okla., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Ralph Harder, assistant county attorney of Kay County, said tonight that three additional charges will be added tomorrow to those already filed against F. C. Hyde, who is accused of formulating and attempting to execute a poison plot against Samuel C. Collins, brother-in-law of E. W. Marland, wealthy oil man of this city. Hyde had been employed by Collins for years as confidential secretary and legal adviser.

Hyde was arraigned Saturday on a charge of attempting to kill Collins some weeks ago by placing poison in a soft drink sent to the oil man's office. His arrest followed an alleged second attempt last week to poison his employer. Harder said the two additional charges would allege two forgeries and a conspiracy to commit a felony.

The new charges will be based on a letter, alleged to be signed with Collins' forged name, to Collins' New York banker, ordering him to send to Hyde 500 shares of Continental Oil Co. stock which belong to Collins; a draft for $3,500 on Collins, reported to have been forged and found in Hyde's possession, and Hyde's attempt to enlist the aid of Chris Wiederkehr, of Ponca City, in a purported plot to kidnap and poison Collins. Wiederkehr informed his attorney, Ralph Haynes, of the scheme and Haynes in turn imparted his information to Collins and the county attorney, Bruce Potter.

Potter induced Wiederkehr to meet Hyde and listened in a room adjoining that in which they conferred, he said, to Hyde's plans.

Wiederkehr gave the county attorney's office a sworn statement today, relating his part in the alleged plot.

Hyde was reticent in his cell at the county jail, asserting only that he would plead not guilty to charges "as fast as they are filed."

A PICNIC on CONOCO!

Extra miles paid for everything at this party.

PERHAPS you have been accepting the extra miles that are packed into Conoco gasoline as a matter of course. You expect an organization with such facilities and resources as those of the Continental Oil Company to produce a motor fuel of highest efficiency and greatest economy. And you have never been disappointed!

But have you ever figured in a concrete way just what you could buy with the savings which Conoco's extra miles bring to you... Last week's picnic, for instance... Did it occur to you that, after all, you were having that party on Conoco... That the extra miles you have been getting from Conoco all summer really paid the picnic bills?

Prove this for yourself. Note your speedometer reading the next time you fill with Conoco.. Then keep an accurate record of your miles per gallon. That will be convincing evidence of the economy which comes from using Conoco.

Get extra mileage for your gasoline dollar at the Conoco sign.

FAIR AT ROCKVILLE WILL OPEN TODAY

Children to Be Admitted Free to Montgomery County Affair.

EQUINE SHOW SCHEDULE

The Rockville Fair will open today with the opening day as usual, dedicated to the children. Children under 14 years of age will be admitted free as the guests of the association and several hundred are expected. The fair will continue for five days at the grounds on the Rockville pike at the entrance to Rockville.

The horse and pony show will start at 10 o'clock this morning, according to the announcement of Mrs. Herbert L. Diamond, chairman of that committee. Howard Bruce, of Baltimore; E. M. Palmer, of Arlington, Va., and Dorsey Williams, of Ellicott City, Md., will be the judges. The horse and pony show will continue through until tomorrow afternoon.

There are sixteen classes in the horse section including a hunter's flat race, a ladies' flat race and an added class for lead-in 3-year-olds suitable for hunters or saddle horses, while there will be five classes in the pony section. There will be no racing today. Ribbons, silver cups and cash prizes will be awarded, donated by the fair association and by merchants of the town. A band concert, midway shows and free acts will be included on the program tonight.

Because of the sudden death last night of Brown Cissel, brother of J. M. Cissel, the garden party which was to have been held at the latter's residence in Silver Spring tomorrow night under the auspices of the Catholic Daughters, Court Forest Glen, has been indefinitely postponed.

Funeral services for Charles Hoffman White, for the last 28 years Baltimore & Ohio Railroad agent at Rockville, who died Sunday at a Washington hospital, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at Pumphrey's Chapel, Rockville. Burial will be in Mount Zion Cemetery, near Freeland, Baltimore County. Mr. White was one of the oldest employes of the company in point of service, having been with the railroad since 1880. He was 68 years old.

Mr. White was born in Baltimore County and has seen uninterrupted service since he first became employed. He was a member of Montgomery Lodge, No. 195; the James F. Allen Chapter, King Solomon's Council and Montgomery Commandery of Rockville and Boumi Mystic Shrine Temple of Baltimore, and to the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Baltimore. The Rockville lodge of Masons will have charge of the services at the grave.

Beside his widow, Mr. White is survived by a sister, Mrs. Roy C. Hutchinson, of Youngstown, Ohio, and a brother, J. Clinton White, of Philadelphia.

Infantile Paralysis Quarantine Opposed

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Aug. 19.—The City Board of Health met today to consider the infantile paralysis situation in view of public anxiety here. There has been one death and there is one case of the disease. The board expressed disapproval of wholesale quarantine measures as "useless and unworkable," held that since the disease was not epidemic here there was no ground for undue alarm, but urged parents to avoid taking small children into any home or elsewhere where infantile paralysis exists. The board further counseled parents to keep small children away from public gatherings.

City Health Officer R. W. Garnett said it would cost $10,000 to undertake any form of quarantine and believed it would be useless to attempt it.

State Trooper Hurt In Avoiding Collision

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 19.—State Trooper D. A. Smith, of this city, was slightly injured when thrown from his patrol motorcycle on the State Highway south of here as he tried to avoid hitting a market truck driven by Harry Ropp, approaching the highway from a side road.

A high hedge prevented each from seeing the other. Smith managed to jump clear of his cycle. He received a leg abrasion and bruised stomach.

Couple Marries at Cismont.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 19 (Special).—David L. Phillips, of Profit, this county, and Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain, of Stony Point, Va., were married Saturday afternoon at the rectory of Grace Episcopal Church, Cismont, by the Rev. Francis L. Robinson. They will make their home at Cismont.

Wealthy Indian Woman's White Mate Asks Divorce

F. L. Hallam, Charging Extreme Cruelty, Including Beatings, Seeks $250,000 Alimony—Asserts Wife is Worth More Than $1,000,000—Requests Custody of Child.

Miami, Okla., Aug 19 (A.P.).—Alleging extreme cruelty, F. L. Hallam today filed suit in district court for $250,000 alimony and a divorce from Mrs. Anna Beaver Bear Hallam, reputed wealthiest woman of the Quapaw Indian tribe. Hallam, a white man, married the Indian woman at Albuquerque, N. Mex., in 1924. It was her third marriage.

Hallam lists the property of his wife as including $650,000 in cash which is held in trust by the Bureau of Indian Affairs, and enough real estate in Miami and Ottawa County, Okla., to make her total wealth more than $1,000,000. The petition sets forth Mrs. Hallam has a monthly income of $20,000 from lead and zinc ore royalties. In addition, Hallam says his wife is one of the principal heirs to Mrs. John Beaver, another wealthy Quapaw woman.

Several instances of alleged cruelty, including beatings while he was asleep, and a revolver attack, are cited by Hallam.

Mrs. Hallam previously had sued Hallam for divorce on grounds of cruelty and desertion. At her request the case later was dismissed before it went to trial.

Hallam asks custody of Roberta Hallam, 3-year-old daughter, who now is in the care of Mrs. H. K. Miller, of Fairland.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

MR. WELFORD BEATON, editor of The Film Spectator, one of the most eagerly read of the Pacific Coast journals of the trade, has been looking at the future through the small end of the telescope again, and what he has seen embodies portents so ominous that his soul is plunged in sable clouds of gloom. Rather than break my own heart by painting the picture, I shall permit Mr. Beaton to speak for himself:

"The motion picture business always has shown a singular lack of ability to look ahead. To it today's dime is bigger than tomorrow's dollar. Witness the condition of the business today. Never in its thirty years has the film industry been in such terrible shape. Small theaters are closing all over the country and the box-offices of big theaters are giving forth hollow sounds.

"The electric interests of the country have the film industry by the throat and will not loosen their grasp as long as it is possible to squeeze out another dollar. When the squeezing process refuses to yield anything more, the electric interests will step in and foreclose the mortgage which they now have on the motion picture business.

"When they started to manufacture sound devices I do not think the electric companies planned to take over the picture business, but by this time they see not only that it is possible for them to do so, but that it is inevitable if they are to protect the contracts they now have with theater owners in every State."

That is only the beginning of the fearful outlook that confronts Mr. Beaton's startled, but, I gather, not wholly displeased vision, since he has never been a booster for the talkies. He continues, in part:

"The first of November will see the beginning of the end of our present barons as heads of the motion picture industry. During November, December, January the receipts in picture houses will dwindle rapidly, and by February the panic will be on. By that time the industry will have to acknowledge openly that it made a mistake in going into the talkie business, and it will swing back to silents just as insanely, just as cruelly, as it abandoned them for its noisy product. As it salvaged nothing from its silent days, so will it salvage nothing from its talkie days. The electric companies will be compelled to step in and clear up the mess."

Don't be ashamed of your grief; I, too, am drenched with tears!

Ronald Colman having introduced a new personality to his public through the medium of voice, I am now breathlessly informed by Bill Ewing, of the Stanley-Crandall-Warner interests, that Thomas Meighan is on the verge of doing the same thing in "The Argyle Case," to be given an advance midnight showing at the Metropolitan tomorrow night and to open its regular week's engagement at the same house on Saturday.

This I am well prepared to believe. Mr. Meighan's voice is deep and resonant and if it registers even 50 per cent of its normal caliber it should be one of the most agreeable yet recorded by the microphones.

Further than that, articulate drama is no novelty to Mr. Meighan. Long before he ever faced a camera he had been a successful actor on the stage. In fact, his warm friendship with George Ade dates back to the time of his appearance in the leading male role of Ade's "The College Widow." It was here, incidentally, that he met his wife, the former Frances Ring, opposite whom he was cast. Yes, a sister of Blanche Ring.

"The Argyle Case" will fall lamentably short of its promise if it fails to mark the rehabilitation of a splendid actor whose star has waned on the silent screen.

And that reminds me. It is a good thing Harry Lohmeyer, manager of the Earle, returned from his vacation just when he did, for I was about to have Kate Smith singing in his opera house the week of August 24, when as a matter of fact her engagement there is not until a week later, the 31st. Now I only hope that Harry isn't wrong!

After all, it was a bit thick, don't you think, for Frank Gillmore, president of Equity, to place the blame for his failure to corrall the film colony on Ethel Barrymore. It is just barely possible that he might not have been successful, anyway.

Charlie Raymond, the Baltimore impresario, who paid this desk a social call yesterday evening, conveyed by Mike Cullen, of the Palace, and "Brownie," the demon newsreeler—or real newser, if that's better—tells this one:

A master of ceremonies was suddenly stricken ill and was unable to go on. The manager was at his wits' end and finally informed a ventriloquist appearing on the bill that he would have to double for the m. c. This threw such a scare into the ventriloquist that he lost his nerve, sent out one of his dummies to do the job and nobody knew the difference!

Oh, yeah? Well, I don't believe it either.

And did I tell you about the neighbor who named the puppies, "Snapper" and "Zipper" because their mother's name was "Buttons"?

Mississippi Train Guest of Staunton

Visiting Boosters Taken on Tour to Points of Interest in City.

Staunton, Va., Aug. 19.—The "Know Mississippi Better Train," bearing over 200 Mississippi boosters, arrived in Staunton shortly after 9 o'clock this morning on a tour of Eastern States, remaining here until 10:30 o'clock. The Mississippians were headed by Dennis Murphree, former governor of that State.

Representatives of the city government, including Mayor Julius Witz and City Manager Willard F. Day, and members of the Kiwanis, Rotary and Young Men's Business Clubs met the visitors at the railroad station and took them in automobiles for a tour of the points of interest in the city.

Stops were made at Stuart Hall School for Girls, Mary Baldwin College, the Staunton Military Academy, the Virginia School for the Deaf and Blind and Woodrow Wilson's birthplace.

The Stonewall Brigade Band of Staunton also met the visiting boosters. The Mississippians were accompanied by the Mississippi State Teachers' College Band and by about twenty men and women teachers from the college.

Four Stills Seized On Maryland Farm

Special to The Washington Post.

Denton, Md., Aug. 19.—John T. Lockwood, of Millington, Md., was released under $2,000 bail here following a hearing before U. S. Commissioner J Dewees Carter on a charge of manufacturing and possessing illicit liquor.

He was arrested by agents of the office of George A. Hill, Federal prohibition director for Delaware and Maryland's Eastern Shore, who say they discovered a large moonshine plant on his farm near Crampton. In addition to four stills 1,000 gallons of alleged mash were taken.

Starlings Menace Kent County Corn

Serious Damage Reported as Remedial Measures Are Considered.

Chestertown Md., Aug. 19.—Thousands of English starlings are now feeding on the Kent County corn crop, already seriously damaged by the recent prolonged drought, and corn is being consumed to an alarming degree, said J. D. McVean, county agricultural agent, today. The most serious damage is being caused by the birds cutting away the husk and leaving the grain exposed to the elements, it is said, many cases of rot being caused in this manner.

What steps will be taken to eradicate the pest has not yet been determined and McVean is now in conference with officials of the Department of Agriculture. Starling pie has been suggested as an easy way of eliminating the birds and a bounty to aid in defraying the expense of exterminating them is another means advanced.

If the starling might be made to develop a taste for the Mexican bean beetle it is possible he might be welcomed in this area, the county agent said. Complaint is also being made by county residents that the visitor is rapidly driving out the song birds.

Hoover, Jr., to Speak on Air Tonight

President's Son, Herbert, to Explain Uses of Radio in Connection With Aviation—Casey Jones to Talk.

Herbert Hoover, jr., radio expert for the Western Air Express, Los Angeles, will explain the essential uses of the radio in connection with aviation when he talks in the "Roads of the Sky" series at 6 o'clock, through WRC.

Although he is only twenty-six years old, Hoover has extensive knowledge of radio and aviation, having received a Federal license as an amateur radio operator. He received the A. B. degree at Leland Stanford University, the master's degree at Harvard, and during his college courses he specialized in electrical and general engineering.

Since the first of this year Hoover has been working with radio operations, installations and experiments. He has traveled over many air lines, and has established numerous radio stations, particularly over the route between Los Angeles and Kansas City. In cooperation with other experts he has been experimenting for the perfection of the radio telephone. His major interest is with aviation. The radio must become to the airplane, he says, what the block system is to the railroad.

The ("Roads of the Sky" series of talks on topics of interest in aviation is being sponsored by the National Broadcasting Co. and the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. Appropriate selections will be heard in conjunction with this program.

An informal program entitled "A Rendezvous at 711," with Norman Sweetser, barytone, as master of ceremonies, stars several of the NBC staff members in a broadcast at 7 o'clock. Among those who will be heard are Ralph Fresse, tenor, and the two-piano combination of Keith McLeod and George Dilworth. Hugo Mariani will direct the orchestra.

An extensive selection of mixed tunes, including light waltzes and Spanish airs, will be broadcast by the Eveready Hour Orchestra at 8 o'clock. The quartet will sing "Moanin' Low," from "The Little Show," and "O Lucindy," from "The Wobbly Walk."

"The President Hoover March," a special composition prepared by Director Harry Reser for the Eskimos, will feature the broadcast of that orchestra at 9 o'clock. A musical interpretation of what happens when the nickel depositor at the telephone gets a series of wrong numbers, and the symphonic explanations incident thereto, will be told in another composition by Harry Reser to be played in this program.

Songs of Italy will be sung and played by a group of native musicians in the program "Neapolitan Nights," to be broadcast at 10 o'clock. The ensemble will be composed of Nino Fucile, barytone; Joe Biviani, accordionist; a soprano and the Paladino mandolin quartet. Giuseppe di Benedetto, tenor, will direct the program.

The selections for the Slumber Music broadcast, directed by Ludwig Laurier, include the Suite L'Arlesienne No. 1, Bizet; Ballet Suite, Becsey; "Valse des Fleurs," Tschaikowsky; "Serenade" and "Ave Maria," Schubert.

Bing Crosby, barytone, appearing with the Cheer Leaders Quartet on the Old Gold-Paul Whiteman Hour broadcast at 8 o'clock from WMAL will sing three numbers for which he has become well known over the air, "Satisfied," "Vagabond Lover," and "Good Little Bad Little You." The quartet will furnish a vocal refrain to many of the orchestral numbers, which include "Waiting at the End of the Road," "Baby Have a Heart," and "I'll Tell the World About You."

"Casey" Jones, head of the Curtis Flying Service, is to be the guest speaker of the aviation broadcast from WMAL at 7 o'clock. Mr. Jones, one of the best-known aviators in America today, is in charge of all the Curtis services, commercial planes, photographic surveys and the like, and is to talk on aviation as it affects the country, drawing on his experiences for examples of the possibilities the air lanes hold for business and pleasure.

Following the Fada Salon Hour, featuring Willard Amison, tenor, Jesse Crawford will broadcast a half-hour organ recital from WMAL. His selections are "Schubertiana," interpolating "Song of Love" by Romberg; "Valse Lente" and "Pizzicato Polka" from the ballet "Sylvia" by Delibes; "Singin' in the Rain," and "The Beautiful Blue Danube," by Strauss.

Dr. Richard T. Wyche, lecturer and author, is to be presented to the D. C. Parents and Teachers Congress in the weekly radio program the organization is directing through WOL each Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF August 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 6 a. m. to 8 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Do not run risks financially or otherwise, on this date. The influences are bad, and will affect most all phases of life. Remember, however, "The stars incline, but do not compel." Take exceptional care of your health.

Children born on this August 20 will be high spirited and full of energy. They will have a romping childhood. Care should be taken that they do not become "excitement" mad, and excessively restless. They will be delightfully good natured.

Emotionalism is the keynote of your nature in all its phases, and as a result you are neither logical nor constant. You are very much carried away by your feelings, and are very temperamental in your likes and dislikes. They are not fixed factors by any means, for your tastes and ideas change with your emotional barometer.

Your greatest weakness is that you are too adaptable to those with whom you are thrown in contact. You strongly reflect your environment and associates, and in consequence often suffer for the faults of others. Physically you are a pacifist; mentally you are a fighter. Your tongue is as sharp as it is clever. Your words are not always savored with kindness and diplomacy. You are quick tempered, but our anger soon cools down, and you most readily forgive your enemies without harboring resentment. You are a very clever character analyst, and are not easily "taken in." People interest you as a study, but you are not philanthropic or sympathetic. There is very little sentiment in your make-up.

The last half of your life is indicated as being brighter than the first. There are troubles and difficulties pictured in your early years, but you will have the ambition and will power to surge ahead and success or fame will crown your efforts.

Successful people born August 20:
Samuel L. Mitchell—Scientist.
Valentine Mott—Surgeon.
James J. Jarves—Art critic and author.
Benjamin Harrison — Twenty-third President of U. S. A.
Paul Dana—Journalist.
Edward C. Butler—Diplomat and author.

Today's True Detective Story

The Man With the Dark Lantern.

By VANCE WYNN

WHO killed John Hayes in the old inn between London and Oxford?

The facts can be stated very briefly The gentleman in question was an English squire of great wealth. On his way from the capital to the old university town he stopped at a tavern kept by Jonathan Bradford. There were two other guests at the place and Mr. Hayes struck up an acquaintance with them. They had supper together, and during the course of the meal the squire laughingly remarked that he had a large sum of money with him.

The two other guests—Brown and Harley—exchanged significant glances at this unexpected confidence. Bradford, the landlord, was in the room at the time, and it was noticed he listened to this part of the conversation with eagerness, if not greediness Late that night each of the three guests was escorted to the room that had been assigned to him. John Hayes was domiciled in a middle apartment on the second floor, and his valet was placed in a room on the same floor and in the rear of the house.

James Johnson, one of the permanent guests of the inn, sat up late that night reading. He used a candle which stood in its socket on the table, and just when this began to sputter, Johnson was aroused by sounds of a scuffle in the adjoining room. This was the apartment to which John Hayes had been assigned Sounding the alarm, Johnson rushed to this room and, opening the door, rushed in. To his horror he saw a man in the bed, covered with blood. Standing over him, with a knife in his hand and a dark lantern fastened to his arm, was another man who averted his face. Johnson was so pertified with astonishment that he was unable to speak. Two other boarders came into the room, and they were so shocked that they were helpless. In the meantime the man with the lantern slipped around the foot of the bed and out into the darkness of the night.

The police were summoned and they began the investigation to discover who killed John Hayes.

Suspicion pointed to the two men who had been the companions of the deceased at supper on the previous evening. But when the inquest was held Mr. Johnson said that the man with the lantern and the knife who stood by the side of the bed was Jonathan Bradford, the keeper of the inn. He was much confused at this charge, but positively denied that he was in any way responsible for the murder. He said he had heard the groans of the dying man and had gone to the room to ascertain the cause of the trouble, and was thus found standing there by Johnson and the other boarders. But the evidence was against him and he was convicted and duly executed according to law.

After it was all over one of the county detectives was curious enough to get a list of the property that had been stolen from the murdered man. One of the articles was a gold snuff box which had engraved upon it the coat-of-arms of George I. The investigator made a tour of the pawnshops of London and in one of them he found the gold snuff box. With the assistance of the pawnbroker he managed to locate the man who had pledged the article. And whom do you suppose it was, gentle reader?

None other than the valet of John Hayes, who had slept in the inn that night!

He was followed to a little room where he was living in London, but was found to be in a dying condition. Before he passed away, however, he made a full confession, in which he admitted that he had gone into the room that night and murdered his master for his money.

It might be imagined that a cruel miscarriage of justice had occured if another and even more startling revelation had not come to pass. One of the men who accompanied Jonathan Bradford to the scaffold said that the inn keeper had told him that while he had not committed the murder, he was morally guilty He confessed that he had conceived the idea of killing the poor old man for his money and, securing a dark lantern and a knife, had slipped into his room for that purpose—only to find him dead by the hand of another.

WORK ON BRIDGE

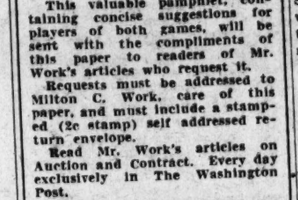
Bridge Brevities, a pamphlet, by Milton C. Work, the world's preeminent authority on Auction and Contract bridge, free.

This valuable pamphlet, containing concise suggestions for players of both games, will be sent with the compliments of this paper to readers of Mr. Work's articles who request it.

Requests must be addressed to Milton C. Work, care of this paper, and must include a stamped (2c stamp) self addressed return envelope.

Read Mr. Work's articles on Auction and Contract. Every day exclusively in The Washington Post.

COULD YOU DO BETTER?



IN the above hand the Auction Bridge bidding would be: South two Spades, followed by three passes. The Contract Bridge bidding would be: South two Spades, West pass, North four Spades, followed by three passes.

When the hand was played, West led the King and then the Ace of Clubs, East signaled by playing the Eight on the first round and the Deuce on the second. On these two Clubs South played the Queen and Jack, hoping to fool West and keep him from going on with the suit. But West knew that he could trust his partner, so he then led a third Club which East trumped. Then East, not wishing to lead up to either Ace in dummy, led the Jack of Spades (it made no difference in the result what lead he made at this time). South winning, exhausted the adverse Spades and took the rest of the tricks, discarding a Heart on dummy's good Club.

Could you have done better?

The Answer.

East should not have signaled; he should have played the Club Deuce on trick 1 instead of the Eight. He did not wish Clubs continued although he probably could take the third round by trumping; but with four such trumps as East held he did not desire to be forced. Viewing the hand at this stage, he could expect his side to take two Club tricks and one trump trick without ruffing; and if West should shift to a Heart after winning with the first Club, East probably could win a Heart trick. So East should play the discouraging Deuce of Clubs on trick 1 and if West Heart, East and West will save game.

How to Keep Well

CLOTHES MAKE THE MAN HOT.

THIS was a hot a day, a sizzling hot one. Somewhere about 4 o'clock a woman was seen escorting her two small children down the street. The girl had bare legs and bare arms. Her dress was very light. She had nothing on her trunk and legs except this one garment and a very light undergarment which covered no part of her legs except a few inches of her upper thigh. She wore light shoes consisting of little more than a sole and heel, and her socks covered nothing but her feet and ankles.

The boy was another proposition He had on a heavy cloth cap. His head was bound to be hot. On his body he had a cloth coat that was fairly heavy, a washable shirt with a fairly stiff collar and a cravat. Probably, there was an undershirt and some sort of drawers. His trousers were cloth, apparently woolen. They were very full and appeared heavy in the region of the thighs. They bagged in a very fashionable way around the knees and the upper legs. Then came a pair of heavy stockings. In other words, his leg covering was a copy of that worn by male golfers. Finally, there was a pair of rather heavy low-quartered shoes with good solid soles and squat broad heels.

The girl was laughing as she rather played down the street. Not so the boy. Maybe he felt that he had to live up to his rather stylish raiment. But it looked to me as if he were hot and uncomfortable and did not feel like hopping and playing.

Not so many years ago boys wore the sensible clothes and dressy girls were looked down on. Dr. Fiske, of the Life Extension Institute is trying to get the male adult to follow the example of the female of the species. He has been weighing the clothes of men and women, everything from head to foot, from the skin out, comparing the weights and using the figures to persuade his brothers. Man's hat is now heavier than that of women's. His shoes are much heavier than hers and the same comment applies to everything in between. Woman now goes with arms bared and much of the skin of her neck, upper chest, and back can get direct light and air. Man wears a heavy coat with full length sleeves. Some women are wearing no covering for the legs from the knee to the ankle. If a man wears knickers he pieces out with an extra heavy golf stocking. Man's garments are not only heavier but the fabrics of which they are made are more closely woven. So far as comfort and healthfulness are concerned women are dressing in hot weather more comfortably than men do. Ten years ago they suffered by comparison but they have learned. Man is still chained to the past.

JEWELRY AND LOCKJAW.

Miss F. H. writes: When I wear jewelry with metal on it my skin turns black. Is this a sign of too much acid in my system? What could I do to remedy it?

REPLY.

This is the result of sulphides on the surface of your skin. Sulphides develop from decomposing grease, skin, cells and sweat. The tub's the remedy.

ECZEMA AND TREATMENT.

J. P. writes: Is eczema curable? I have two red spots on my face which have been there for three months The doctors told me it was a touch of eczema.

REPLY

What is called eczema is either very curable or very incurable, dependent on the tack you take. If you will find the cause and avoid it cure will follow spontaneously.

LITTLE DIFFERENCE EITHER WAY.

Mrs. E. M. S. writes: I have a son 6 years old, and he is a little round shouldered. Do you think overalls will make him more so? He likes to wear them, but I am afraid the straps pulling will make him more round shouldered.

REPLY

It will make very little difference either way.

Building up the back and neck muscles is the efficient way to overcome stoop-shoulders.

YOU DRINK TOO MUCH NOW.

P. Q. writes:

1. I am 19, weigh 151 pounds, am 6 feet 1 inch tall. I drink on the average 2 quarts of grade A milk a day. Please advise how I can put on about 10 pounds.

2. I am double jointed. Would that keep me thin?

REPLY.

1. You are drinking too much milk. You need some of that room for bread, cereals, sugar, butter, meats, vegetables, and fruits. Do you sleep 9 hours every night, and do you get a Sunday afternoon nap?

2. No.

STOCK LIST MOVES FARTHER FORWARD

Oils Alone Conspicuously Weak—Pace of Trading Slows Up.

CALL FUNDS 7 PER CENT

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The upward price trend was maintained despite bear onslaughts in today's stock market, several of the foremost utility and industrial issues reaching unprecedented high levels. The pace of trading slackened notably whenever the upward movement faltered, and the day's total transaction fell just short of 4,000,000 shares.

The oil stocks displayed the only conspicuous weakness, as profit taking on the sharp upturn in this group late last week was promoted by denials or lack of confirmation of several merger rumors current last week and by a somewhat less confident attitude toward the prospect of maintaining oil prices at present levels when gasoline consumption undergoes its seasonal decline.

The bear attacks were based on the prospect of firmer credit this week and on the reconvening of the Senate, which holds the threat of an investigation of credit and speculation. Call money held officially at 7 per cent for another day, but was firm at that figure, one large lender demanding 8 for a time. Time money was unchanged at 8¾ to 9 per cent. Forecasts of firmer money this week are based on the prospect of a large flow of cotton and wheat bills into the bankers' acceptance market, which bankers believe may more than offset the effects of Federal Reserve bill buying.

Day's News Most Favorable.

The day's news continued to be largely of a character favorable to the stock market, particularly the formation of another large trading company, Blue Ridge Co., by Goldman Sachs & Co. Earnings statements were generally favorable, although Willys Overland Co. reported first half net of $4,155,478, as compared to $5,641,517 in the like period of 1928. Further evidence of belated seasonal decline in the steel industry came from Youngstown, where mills were said to be operating at the lowest rate of the year.

American Telephone and U. S. Steel were leaders of the advance, the former selling up about 6 points to a new peak at 299, and the latter rising about 10 points to a new top just under 250. Such issues as American Can, Allis Chalmers, American & Foreign Power, American Water Works, International Telephone, Nickel Plate, Pere Marquette and Westinghouse Electric reached new high ground in advances ranging from 3 to 12 points.

Film Shares Move Upward.

Renewed rumors, previously denied, of a merger of Paramount and Warner Bros. sent both issues up a couple of points to new peaks. Bethlehem Steel duplicated its best figure at 128⅛ with a gain of more than 3 points. Auburn Auto, in which the floating supply is said to be very low, jumped 31 points to a new top at 451. Motors and coppers were generally steady to firm.

In the oils, such issues as Barnsdall A, General Asphalt, Pan American B, Skelly, Standards of New Jersey and New York, and Richfield lost 2 points or so, while Houston dropped more than 5. Among other issues to lose ground were Air Reduction, Fleischmann, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Stone & Webster and Union Pacific, which closed 2 to 3 points lower.

The commodity markets were irregular, cotton futures surging forward about $2 a bale on bullish weather reports, while wheat lost 3 to 3½ cents a bushel on bearish Canadian crop estimates and corn lost a cent or more on beneficial rains over the belt.

Foreign exchanges moved in narrow ranges, sterling cables holding steady at $4.84¾.

SUPPORT IS SWUNG TO UTILITIES BONDS

Remainder of List, Except Few Rails, Drifts Off Irregularly.

FOREIGN GROUP IS QUIET

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Traders in the listed bond market today shifted practically all their support to the public utilities, shoving the leaders to new highs. The rest of the list with the exception of a few rails was allowed to drift irregularly lower.

Sales just fell short of $10,000,000 par value. Money was unchanged call loans holding at 7 per cent and time money at 8¾ and 9 per cent.

The advances of American Telephone convertible 4½s and International Telephone convertible 4½s into new high ground and the sharp rise in Public Service of New Jersey 4½s followed gains by the stocks. American Telephone 4½s on a turnover of $2,232,000 reached 217 and closed at 215 for a net gain of 7. International Telephone 4½s sold up to 187 and finished at 184, up 5½ from Saturday's closing. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s came within 1½ points of their previous closing at their high price of the day at 168½ for a gain of 7½. General Public Service 5½s rose 2.

Seaboard Air Line adjustment 5s, involved in the capital readjustment plan passed upon by stockholders today, attained a new high for the year at 52, an advance of 2½ from Saturday's closing. Nickle Plate 4½s rose one. Alleghany Corporation issues were firm. Other rails were dull and generally closed fractionally lower.

American I. G. Chemical 5½s advanced a point. Commercial Investment Trust 5½s established a new top at 106½, and closed at 105½, for a net gain of 2¾. Pathe Exchange 7s carrying warrants, rose 3 to 67. A new low for the year was touched by Porto Rican-American Tobacco 6s at 94½, down a point.

The Cuba Cane Sugar bonds sold off the 8s equaling their low price for the year. Time for deposit of bonds and stock under a drastic reorganization plan expires tomorrow. Cuban Dominican Sugar 7½s, were strong, getting up 4 points to close at 69.

The United States Government obligations were irregular. The foreign list was quiet.

WALKER PUNCHES WAY TO DECISION OVER LOMSKI

Helen Wills In Decisive Victory

Helen Jacobs Defeats Penelope Anderson by 8—6, 6—4.

Champion Wins, 6-0, 6-0, From Miss Lamarche.

By TED VOSBURGH.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 19 (A. P.).—Helen Jacobs took nearly an hour, Betty Nuthall half an hour and Queen Helen Wills only 18 minutes to win their first round matches in the national women's tennis championship tournament which opened today at the famous West Side Stadium.

Miss Jacobs had a strenuous battle before she finally eliminated Penelope Anderson, of Richmond, Va., the Southern entrant among the 64 contenders, by scores of 8—6, 6—4.

"Bounding Betty," England's aspirant for all the honors now held by Helen Wills, dallied somewhat lightly with Cecilia Riegel, of Philadelphia, before she finally took the match at 6—2, 6—2.

It was in no such frivolous mood that the champion took the court. Swinging hard on every shot, making the most of her powerful service and taking the net about once in every game, Miss Wills stormed through the puny defenses of Katharine Lamarche, of Seabright, N. J., to the ringing tune of 6—0, 6—0.

Second Set Won in 18 Minutes.

Playing with the skill and power that has made her undisputed woman champion of the world, there was little wonder that Queen Helen set something of a tennis record by winding up a match in just 18 minutes with the loss of but 15 points. The first set lasted 10 minutes and the second 8. Only two games were forced to deuce, one in each set, and in the first the sum of the New Jersey player's points was eight, in the second only seven.

Not one of these tallies was an earned point. Three of the games were won at love and 6 with the loss of but one point.

Another player to pulverize the opposition was Alice Francis, of Orange, N. J., who won in love sets from Mrs. Fred M. Letson, of New York.

Of the 32 matches only 3 required more than two sets for decision. In general the favorites were successful and by decisive margins, the only break in the seeded list of fourteen coming when Olive Wade, of Toronto, champion of Canada, was felled by Mrs. Martha Bayard Guild, of Boston, 0—8, 6—2. Jean Burritt and Mrs. O. E. Gray, also of Toronto, likewise were beaten, ending the last Canadian hopes for honors here.

Foreign Players Fail Except British.

Except for the five English Wightman Cup players, who advanced according to schedule, all of the other foreign players were put out of the running. Bermuda, Brazil and Sweden, each represented by a single player, were eliminated by American antagonists.

An added surprise of the opening day was announcement that Helen Wills would not compete in the champion doubles starting tomorrow. Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, of Brookline, Mass., with whom she won the title last year, is entered with Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass. Seeded first among the American entrants is the San Francisco team of Mrs. L. Harper and Edith Cross, runners-up last season, while England will be represented by formidable teams.

The schedule for tomorrow's play in the stadium follows:

2 p. m.—Mrs. L. A. Harper, San Francisco, vs. Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass.; Mrs. Peggy Saunders Michell, England, vs. Mianna Palfrey, Brookline, Mass.

3 p. m.—Mrs. Dorothy Shepherd-Barron, England, vs. Sarah Palfrey, Brookline; Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, vs. Eleanor Goss, New York.

4 p. m.—Helen Wills, Berkeley, vs. Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin, Springfield, Mass.; Betty Nuthall, England, vs. Gertrude Dwyer, New York.

Mr. Wiggins policy has always been innocent of any such cant. For the effect of ale, he drinks ale and, having boundless faith in the recipe, he trains on boundless quantities of ale. After his own fashion, he trains more diligently than any other athlete in current competition, and it is barely possible that he had overtrained at the time when his automobile argued a fine point of precedence with the night shift of the police force.

It is hard to understand this persistent interference with the Chuckler on the part of the Indianapolis police, as he has always shown the most generous regard for not only the Indianapolis police, but for all members of the blue cloth.

Wiggins Contributes to Cop's Burial.

As a typical instance of this, I am reminded of a time when a policeman had died in the performance of his duty. To protect the lives of unsuspecting citizens, the officer went into a speakeasy and martyred himself sampling the beverages to determine whether they were deleterious. They were emphatically deleterious, the gallant officer succumbed and a semipublic movement was begun to buy flowers for his funeral, in the course of which a solicitor approached the Chuckler for a contribution of one dollar.

"A dollar to buy a cop flowers?" said Mr. Wiggins. "With pleasure. Here is a twenty-dollar bill, bury nineteen more."

There is one hint in the dispatch from Indianapolis which suggests to me that the entire incident is a frame up. It states that Mr. Wiggins hit one of the officers on the chin and knocked him down. If Mr. Wiggins scored a knock down, it was a fake.

Ruth Once Trained In Brewery.

The boys who show the courage of their predilections in the sport business and themselves judged by an erratic standard of propriety. Babe Ruth, in his prime, was a great adherent of the ale theory and as long

LAW CHECKS WORKOUT OF WIGGINS

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 19.—The attempt of the Indianapolis police force to repress the irrepressible Chuck Wiggins marks him as another prophet who is without honor in his own home town. While crowded with ale, Mr. Wiggins was surrounded by the entire night shift of the police force and impounded after a struggle, in the course of which his automobile and their squad car were somewhat roughed about and the furniture of the hotel lobby was put to warlike uses, to the great detriment of the furniture.

This is merely another evidence of a malicious systematic persecution of Mr. Wiggins by the Indianapolis police force. He is the best prize fighter Indianapolis has produced since the time of Jack Dillon, and the fact that he was fairly well saturated with ale only proves that he was training diligently for his fight with Al Friedman, which now will have to be postponed sine die.

The boat crews of all the American universities used to receive rations of ale at mess every day while in training and there was a time not long ago when it was customary to set tankards before the football players at their training tables.

Football Coaches Seek Alcoholic Effect.

At the present time, some football coaches are serving raw sugar to their players in training and between quarters on the field as an evasive substitute for ale. The sugar turns to alcohol in the chemistry of the body and so conscientious an institution

Wiggins Wins Delay In Indianapolis Court

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The case of Chuck Wiggins, local boxer who last night battled with the police after his automobile had struck a police car, was continued in municipal court today until August 29.

This will enable Wiggins to meet Al Freidman, Boston heavyweight, in a bout here tomorrow night.

Hoover to See Legion Game Today

Asheville and Atlanta Open Eastern Title Series at 10 A. M.

Dignitaries to Watch Buffalo-Uniontown Play at 3 P. M.

FOUR of the six teams intent on capturing the junior American Legion baseball championship of the East and the right to compete in the Little World Series at Louisville, Ky., next month, will open combat in Griffith Stadium today.

President Hoover and other National and District government dignitaries will be among those who witness the program this afternoon. Hundreds of disabled former service men will be guests and thousands of youths are expected to attend the two games, as the Legion officials have announced that the gates will be thrown open to all boys and girls under 17 years of age.

The Asheville Junior Tourists, of Asheville, N. C., and the Atlanta Cardinals, of Atlanta, Ga., were drawn to meet in the initial contest this morning at 10 o'clock. These two teams are the lone representatives from the South.

This afternoon's fray, which starts at 3 o'clock, immediately after the arrival of President Hoover, will bring together the Buffalo (N. Y.) Nine and Uniontown (Pa.) Team, representing Lafayette Post.

Washington Post Medals For Local Champions.

Favored by the draw, the Louisville (Ky.) and Lisbon Falls (Me.) Nines will not get into action until tomorrow. They will oppose each other in the morning game tomorrow. The victorious teams in today's games will meet tomorrow afternoon. The two victors tomorrow will then battle Thursday in a single game for the Eastern title.

Although one game will be played this morning, ceremonies will be reserved for the afternoon program. Prior to the 3 o'clock contest, Coach Tom Suter and the thirteen members of the George Washington Post Team, winner of the District title and runner-up to Uniontown in the regionals, will be presented with gold baseballs, emblematic of the championship of the local series and awarded by The Washington Post. Col. Hjalmir Erickson, president of the Capital City League, will present the trophies.

Headed by the Marine Band, the members of the six teams contending for the Eastern title will march to the flagpole in the center field, where the captains of the Buffalo and Uniontown Teams will hoist the national colors.

Boxes Reserved for Dignitaries.

President Hoover informed Dan Sowers, national director of the legion series, yesterday that he will arrive at the park at 3 o'clock. He will be seated in the presidential box. Adjoining boxes have been reserved for the District Commissioners, members of the Diplomatic Corps, senators and representatives and other officials who have announced their intentions to witness the game. A large section of the stands will be reserved for the disabled soldiers and another will be provided for the army of young fans expected to attend.

The Buffalo Team was the last of the contending clubs to arrive last night. The Atlanta, Asheville and Louisville teams practiced on the Ellipse yesterday afternoon. The Uniontown and Buffalo Teams plan to drill this morning on the Ellipse.

Asheville's representatives suffered a severe blow yesterday when their star catcher, Jack McJunkin, was lost to the team. He left his home with the team, but was intercepted by his brother and forced to return home. Young (Poky) Jones was nominated to take his place today, but the North Carolinians were left with but thirteen players.

More than a score of the visiting players yesterday morning visited Arlington Cemetery and placed a wreath on the grave of the Unknown Soldier.

Coast Shortstop Signed by Yankees

San Jose, Calif., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—William Essic, scout for the New York Yankees, today came to an agreement with Ed Lieshman whereby the 21-year-old star shortstop of the San Jose Bees will sign with the Yankees on September 1. He is to report next season.

Lieshman, an Oakland youth, just out of high school, has played such good baseball with the California State League team this season that representatives of the Philadelphia Athletics, Pittsburgh Pirates, St. Louis Browns, and two Coast League clubs, Oakland and Portland, were after his services.

Last week, Essic purchased Vernon "Lefty" Gomez, San Francisco Seal left-handed pitcher, for a price believed to be around $50,000 plus two players

Jones Hurls Well Until Yanked in the Eighth.

Miller "Jinx" Broken With Judge Showing the Way.

Special to The Washington Post.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 19.—"Sad Sam" Jones, venerable Washington hurler, returned to his team after a brief vacation and hurled the Nats to a 5-to-3 triumph over Cleveland here this afternoon. Joe Judge's three hits figured prominently in his team's victory.

For a brief period it looked as though Jones would be blasted from the hill, but the ancient right-hander tightened up after the third inning and hurled brilliantly until he was removed from the mound with two out in the eighth.

Manager Walter Johnson, of the Nats, refused to take any chances. Jones seemed to be losing his control and Johnson yanked him after he had walked Averill and Falk in the eighth. Fred Marberry went to the hill and breezed Hodapp to nip a promising Indian uprising.

The Nats were forced to rout an old jinx to cop today's tilt. Walter Miller, slender Cleveland southpaw, had trimmed the Nats three times prior to today's game and would have made it four straight had he been accorded perfect support

Phils Win 2 to Knock Pirates Out of Race

Philadelphia, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Young Harry Smythe, pride of Asheville and the Sally League, pitched five hitless innings against the hard-swinging Pirates today enabling the humble Phillies to trun back Bush's hopeful array by 7 to 6 and 8 to 5 in a double-header.

The double victory served the Phillies only to the extent of lifting them from the cellar by a slender margin over the foundering Braves, but the double reverse upon the Pirates ledger just about ended the National League pennant race. The Cubs were idle and picked up a full game, the more important because it was represented by two contests in the games lost column. The Bruin margin now is eight games, with a margin of ten in games lost.

TWO D. C. NET STARS ARE BEATEN

O'Neill, Shoemaker Bow in Municipal Court Title Play.

Special to The Washington Post.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Two-thirds of Washington's entry in the National Public Parks championship disappeared from the lists this afternoon when Maurice O'Neill and George Shoemaker were defeated in the singles by Bob Norton and Lou Kurland, of St. Louis and Baltimore, respectively.

The O'Neill-Norton match was the feature singles encounter of the day and the scores, 5—7, 8—6, 13—11, 6—0, just about tell the story of the battle. The veteran Washingtonian fought a game but losing battle against the hard-hitting, brilliant St. Louisan. Both players were near exhaustion at the finish.

Shoemaker was the victim of a mild attack of stage fright, which doomed his chances against Kurland. This was Shoemaker's first important tournament and he had the misfortune of playing on the exhibition court not far removed from the barrage of telegraph operators sending news of his progress to all parts of the country.

Bob Considine, Washington's main hope in the singles, had no trouble disposing of Bert Clough, Cleveland champion. The George Washington University captain's all-court game was too much for Clough to cope with.

Considine to Pair in Doubles With Muny Champ.

O'Neill is a huge favorite with the local galleries despite his loss today. Every good shot the lanky Irishman put over against his fiery opponent was greeted with rounds of applause.

Considine, the District singles titlist, and George Jennings, of Chicago, the defending national singles champion, met in a practice match this morning which attracted a large gallery.

Jennings, who last year shared both the singles and doubles honors, today chose Considine as his doubles partner. The Jennings-Considine combine came as a surprise and it is likely it will reign favorite to win the title.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics won their game with the Browns today, evening the series at one and one. The score was 8 to 2, Bill Shores holding the St. Louis team till the last inning before allowing them to score.

The A's manda two homers, one by Bishop in the first and the other by Haas in the seventh. Manush and Kress each scored a run in the Brown's half of the ninth.

BREAK JINX

Veteran Suspended by Pilot for Breaking Training.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Grover Cleveland Alexander, veteran St. Louis pitcher, has been sent home from New York for breaking training and will be suspended upon arrival here, President Sam Breadon announced today.

"I feel very badly about the matter," Breadon said, "but disciplinary methods are entirely up to the manager of the team."

Alexander asked permission to go fishing in Philadelphia recently and this was granted. He appeared to be out of condition when he returned and was warned by Manager Bill McKechnie that if he broke training again he would be sent home.

McKechnie Done With Soft Treatment.

Last night McKechnie apparently discovered that Alexander had not obeyed his orders and the shipment followed. McKechnie said he was through with soft treatment of offending players as he had found leniency was not getting results.

Alexander was a strong factor in winning the pennant for the Cardinals in 1926 and 1928 and his failure to hold his own this year was one of the reasons for the downfall of the club.

R. MACKENZIE WILL REPRESENT D. C. IN AMATEUR

Youth Decides To Compete In Tourney

Spends Morning With McLeod for Final Practice Session.

Was Medalist in 1925; Pitt 5 Over Par at Columbia.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

ROLAND MACKENZIE left yesterday afternoon for California to compete in the national amateur golf championship, which begins on September 2 on the Pebble Beach course near Monterey. His partner in the two qualifying rounds of 18 holes each on Monday and Tuesday, September 2 and 3, will be John S. Grimes, of the Rolling Road Club, Baltimore, the former Maryland State champion.

MacKenzie's determination to make the trip to the Pacific Coast was a last minute affair, and this gives Washington a representative in the event. He had doubted his ability to take a month away from business and was also uncertain whether the long journey would justify the expense involved. However, a telegram from his father, Albert R. MacKenzie, who is now spending a vacation in Denver, telling him to start for the Coast caused him to hasten to the Columbia Club yesterday and spend the forenoon hours in taking a final lesson from Fred McLeod, the club professional.

MacKenzie stated before his departure that he seriously regretted his lack of practice. Inasmuch as he has played very little golf this season, "but," he added, "I am going to do the best I can." He plans to stop in Denver on his way West and hopes he can persuade his father to accompany his to the Coast.

Record Warrants Expectation Of Added Laurels.

MacKenzie's golf record warrants the expectation that he will add to his laurels at Pebble Beach. In local and sectional events he has been supreme, winning the District and Middle Atlantic golf championships, as well as innumerable club invitation events, while in the major competitions he achieved a national reputation.

With the exception of the national amateur at Braeburn last year, he has never failed to qualify for match play. At Merion in 1924, he was the hero in a struggle against George Von Elm when, after being 8 down and fifteen to play, he played 15 holes in even 4s and was only defeated on the thirty-seventh hole when he took three putts.

He was medalist at Oakmont in 1925 with a card of 71—74—145, two strokes ahead of Bobby Jones. At Baltusrol in 1926, he was defeated in the first round by his fellow clubmember, Miller B. Stevinson, but at Minnekahda in 1927 he went to the semifinals and would have been a finalist if "Chick" Evans had not run down a 30-foot putt for a birdie 3 on the thirty-seventh green.

Pitt Fails in Attack on Par At Columbia.

Harry G. Pitt, former Middle Atlantic champion, who last week created the record of the Manor Club with a card of 35—33—68, yesterday visited the Columbia Club as the guest of H. S. Welch, sr., and played a round in the effort to break 70, the par for the course. He failed by five strokes, finishing with 37—37—74. The foursome also included C. M. Wright and H. S. Welch, jr.

The third tournament of the golfing employes of the Interstate Commerce Commission will be held today on the course of the Indian Spring Club. Competition will be a 36-hole match play against par, handicap allowance. Contestants will be divided into flights, grouped according to handicaps, and prizes will be awarded to the winner and runner-up in each flight, as well as for low net scores for 18 and 36 holes.

In a foursome played yesterday over the Burning Tree course, in which Walter Cunningham, home pro, and William Spade played, Al Houghton, Harper Country Club pro, and Carl Corby, Houghton turned in a card of 69—three below par. He was out in 37 and back in 32, as follows.

JUDGE STARS AS NATS WIN 5-3 GAME

Veteran Gets 3 Hits in Offensive That Routs Miller.

bunt to fill the bases, but Spencer rolled to Miller for the final out

The Indians scored a pair of runs in the second and took the lead. Falk strolled with one out and scored on Hodapp's triple. Gardner struck out, but Luke Sewell singled to bring in Hodapp. Miller brought the inning to a close with a roller to Hayes.

Goslin opened the third for the Nats with a single, but was nipped at second when he tried to stretch the drive. Umpire Guthrie called the Goose safe, but he was overruled by Umpire Ormsby. A pass to Morgan, J. Sewell's sacrifice and Averill's double brought in the third Cleveland tally in the third.

Rice's double in the fifth went to waste, when Goslin flied to Morgan. Cleveland started a rally in its half, Morgan and J. Sewell getting singles, but Myer made a great stop of Averill's smash and started a double play.

Gardner's Error Starts Nats on Rally in Sixth.

Gardner fumbled Myer's grounder to open the sixth and Cronin walked. West popped out, but Spencer singled to score Myer. Hayes struck out, but Jones walked and Judge singled, scoring Cronin. Judge was trapped between first and second and Jones tried to score during the rundown, but was retired by a snap throw by Gardner to Joe Sewell.

Rice strolled in the seventh and stole second when nobody covered to take the throw. Goslin whiffed, but Myer came through with a single that scored Rice. West also singled, but Spencer struck out.

A parade of pinch hitters started in the seventh. Jamieson batted for Gardner and Rice made a great catch of his liner. Myatt grounded out and Porter doubled off the wall. Morgan brought the inning to a close with a pop fly to Myer.

With Averill and Falk on the runways in the eighth, Marberry relieved Jones and breezed Hodapp.

Tavener opened the ninth with a double, but Myatt flied out. Porter then sent West back to the scoreboard for his smash, Tavener taking third after the catch. Hauser batted for Holloway, who had relieved Miller in the eighth, and struck out.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT E. COLLYER

NELLIE CUSTIS. Kay Spence had this splendid filly in rare form. As a matter of fact and especially worthy of mention is that this clever trainer has more horses on razor edge than at any time since we have been writing these forecasts. Harking back to NELLIE, it was over at the starting gate when she broke and was all but knocked down, and yet, then ran over her field. I look for her to beat BEAMING OVER in handy fashion.

For the rich Chicago test the good mare ROSE OF SHARON is a standout. She has been freshened up and, inasmuch as the boss is on the scene, will probably show plenty of speed. KARL EITEL is a rare good one and sure to be knocking at the door when the numbers are hung up. DR. FREELAND will also show improvement.

In the closing dash, I am stringing along with the consistent MARY DALE, which was raced into exhaustion last time. With nothing serious to carry her today, she should tin can.

Out at Saratoga, CURATE seems to stand out like a sore thumb. This one has shown real smart consistency and is a "hot" horse today. RAMONEUR, CALWICK and VIRMAR are closely bunched.

VERDI, in the day's opener, is another eagle bird. Personally, I believe he will win by at least a length and a half. PROGENY seems to improve with each effort and should be second, with COMET holding the others safe.

In the suicide race, I look for STALKER to graduate from the ranks of the maidens. Has schooled well and has sufficient speed to kill off his field.

BRATTAN, on his best form, should give his field a good beating in the fourth. The Rancocas representative is at the top of his very best form.

It's a wild scramble for second and third with jockeys playing no mean part.

Close fit between SHADY LADY and FAULTLESS in the fifth, while LADYSHIP has a slight call in the closing dash.

You may disagree with me, but that's my story and I'm going to stick to it. Ye'wekkum!

3,000 SEE NAVY-PRINTERS TIE IN SERIES OPENER

Tars in Rally Pull Up to 3-3 Tie

Come From Rear in Eighth; Darkness Stops Game.

Ingram, Simons Stage Box Duel in Week-Day Title Game.

AMID ceremony smacking of a major league opening, Washington's sandlot "world series" was launched yesterday with a 4-to-4 tie marking the debut of the Naval Hospital team, Departmental League champions, and the Union Printers, Government League standard bearers.

A crowd of 3,000 fans at Union Station Plaza saw Ingram, of the Naval Nine, and Simons, of the Typos, engage in an impressive pitching duel after a parade of the two teams and a flag raising, followed by the tossing of the first ball by J. O. Totten, chief clerk of the Washington Terminal, had lent a touch of color to the inauguration of the play-off series for the championship of the week-day leagues of the city.

Boasting a winning streak of 33 games during one stretch of the season, the Naval Hospital team was forced to come from behind in the eighth inning to tie the score after losing a 3-2 lead when the Printers countered with a two-run rally in the sixth.

Navy Team Lacks Scoring Punch In First 2 Rounds.

The Navy lads threatened in both the first and second innings, but on both occasions lacked a scoring punch. The Typos drew first blood in the third inning when Dalgish, scrappy third sacker, drove a hard liner into center. When the ball hopped away from Luckie, Dalgish sped around the circuit for a home run. Benny Schneider then drove one of Ingram's fast balls over the left field barrier for two bases and scored when Simons shot a hard single into right field.

But the Hospital lads came right back in their half, scoring once, when King walked, advanced to second on Roberts' infield hit, and scored on Miller's double into the right field stands. Piller walked to fill the bases, but Howk ended the inning by grounding out to second base. The Tars took the lead in the next inning when, with one gone, Ingram singled to left, and advanced to second when Lowery, Union Printer right fielder, dropped King's easy fly, and both runners scored on Hicks' triple into deepest center.

Naval Hospital held its 3-to-2 lead until the sixth, when a Union Printer offensive carried it to the fore. Waple started the fireworks with a single over Hicks' head, and when Howk, Sailor catcher, elected to try for a force play at second on Hutchinson's sacrifice and threw poorly to the middle sack, both runners were safe. Dalgish was hit by one of Ingram's fast ones and the bases were loaded.

Tars Knot Count Just Before Darkness Stops Game.

Then Goldsmith, Typo catcher and its greatest offensive threat of the game, rifled a fast single to left, and the Typesetters had taken the lead 4 to 3. Hicks, Navy second-sacker, tried to even matters single-handed in the Tars' half by singling, stealing second and continuing on to third on a poor throw, but he died on the far corner when Roberts filed out to center.

Naval Hospital finally evened matters in the eighth when Schuster, pinch-hitter, reached first on an error by Hutchinson. Ingram promptly sacrificed, and the score was tied when King singled to center. Both teams threatened in the final frame, but both hurlers finished strongly and darkness ended the hectic fray.

The Union Printers engage the Pullman Nine, champions of the Terminal League, today at 4:30 p. m. on the Union Station diamond, prior to leaving for Indianapolis to participate in the national Typo tourney. The game today will be their last appearance here until their return from the West.

TILDEN WINS RYE TENNIS MATCH

"Big Bill" Eliminates Perkins; Coen Furnishes Upset.

NEWPORT, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Big Bill Tilden, American premier tennis player, gained a bracket on the rest of the field in the Newport Casino invitation tournament here today, when he defeated S. B. Gilpin, a former Pennsylvania tennis captain, 6—3, 6—2, in the third round match.

Wilmer Allison gained his second round victory at the expense of Donald Cram, of Nashville, Tenn., by 6—4, 6—4. Arthur Wright, former Yale tennis captain, defeated Gilbert Munns, of Toronto, named third on the list of foreign seedings, 4—6, 6—4, 6—4, in a first round match.

Frank Hunter, of New Rochelle, N. Y., another member of the Davis team, who has been seeded second, played but one match, defeating the veteran F. C. Boggs, of New York, 6—3, 6—3.

Although 18 players were seeded, 10 homebreds and eight foreigners, the one ending that caused a flutter among the spectators was the smashing victory of W. F. Coen, jr., young Kansas City player, over the erratic R. N. Williams 2d., of Philadelphia.

Coen Forces Williams to Make Many Errors.

The youngster refused to permit the veteran to crowd the net and forced the latter into many errors before taking the match, 6—4, 6—4. Williams was the tenth and last seeded player on the American list.

In the other matches, second round, John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., defeated Armando Broneau, New York, 1—6, 6—1, 6—4; Norman Farquharson, South Africa, defeated Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines, Iowa, 3—6, 7—5, 6—3. Lawrence Hall, Palo Alto, Calif., defeated Huntington Hartford, Newport, 6—3, 7—5, and Berkeley Bell, Dallas, Tex., defeated George O'Connell, Chicago, 6—3, 6—1, while in first round singles, Lewis N. White, Dallas, Tex., defeated W. R. Bragaw, Philadelphia, 6—2, 6—1.

WIGGINS' WORKOUT HALTED BY POLICE

as he hit home runs in profusion and drew customers in even greater profusion, his right to train all night was not abridged. In fact, on one western trip he established nocturnal training quarters in a brewery. But there came a period when his batting average fell away and his health declined, due in all probability to excessive work outs. That which had been all right then became all wrong and he was fined $5,000, suspended, demoted from the captaincy of the ball club and required to apologize to his foreman, Miller Huggins.

Similarly, in the world series of 1926, Grover Cleveland Alexander pitched and won two games against the Yankees and on the night of the second victory, went into intensive training on the off chance that he might have to return to the box the next day. That evening in the hotel, where the Cardinals were stopping, the old gentleman achieved a beautiful ruddy glow of condition and the next afternoon his colleagues marveled that he was able to appear at the ball yard at all.

World Series Disturbed Alexander's Sleep.

Old Mr. Alexander sat on the bench alongside the bull pen at the Yankee Stadium that afternoon, feeling an uncomfortable reaction, which will be familiar to many other persons, and, while he dozed in the sun, Jess Haines, pitching for the Cardinals, got into serious trouble. The score was 3 to 2 and Tony Lazzeri came to bat with the tying and winning runs on base. Aleck shuffled across the field, struck out Lazzeri and held the Yankees off in the two final innings, and saved the world series for St. Louis.

But Bill McKechnie the present manager of the Cardinals now suspends him for training according to his old familiar system and, detaching him from the ball club in New York, sends him home alone. It was as though a full back at Southern Methodist U. had eaten five pounds of sugar at one sitting achieving a brannigan instead of just the proper alcoholic stimulus.

Well, if they jail Mr. Wiggins away for his sincerity and diligence, he will be in distinguished Hoosier company, entitled to social parity with the late chief magistrate of the State, who was given a scholarship at Georgia Tech, as the bootleggers say, and with Mr. Stephenson of the Ku Klux Klan. But that is just what makes the prospect so humiliating; the chuckler is a joyous citizen, devoid of malice, larceny and guile and it would be a cruel and unusual form of punishment to degrade him to this level.

KLAN NINE BUSY.

Ku Klux Klan go to Ashburn, Va., Sunday to play the team of that town at 3 o'clock. The No 4 Engine Company Nine of Alexandria will be met Saturday at 3 o'clock. Manager Terrett is anxious to arrange a game for Labor Day with either the Georgetown A. C., Naval Hospital or St. Mary's Celtics. Phone Metropolitan 3333.

GALESVILLE CANCELS.

Due to a mix-up in schedule, the Galesville Nine is forced to cancel with the Coleman White Sox for Sunday.

Police Nine Defeats Camp Meade, by 8-5

The Police Department Nine defeated the Camp Meade Tossers, 8 to 5 yesterday in a game at Camp Meade, Md. Lefty Cox hurled good ball for the Cops until the sixth, when he was forced to retire in favor of Finney Kelley, who worked excellently the remainder of the way.

Hoffman, with three out of three, starred at bat for the Cops, although Spiess socked a homer with Hiser on base. The Cops go to Lorton, Va., today to play the Lorton Reformatory School at 4 o'clock.

PLANS MADE FOR SEPT. 2 REGATTA

Program Announced for Chester River Boat Races.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Aug. 19.—The outstanding sporting event of the season will be the first annual regatta of the Chester River Yacht Club which will be staged here on Labor Day, when the first anniversary of the organization of the club will be celebrated. At a meeting of the regatta committee this week the following classes were arranged, with trophies to be awarded the winners: The Scott sailboat race, in charge of Neal A. Truslow; Chesapeake Bay canoe race, for the championship of the bay, in charge of Eben F. Perkins; outboard motor race, in charge of Paul Phillips, of Sudlerville; cabin cruiser race, in charge of R. Hynson Rogers, and a speedboat race, in charge of R. D. Wilson.

The course will be a beautiful stretch of river from the Chester River Bridge to Emory's wharf, a distance of a mile, directly in front of the clubhouse, which is half a mile from this town.

One of the colorful preliminary events will be a sailboat race, now being arranged, from Gibson Island to Chestertown the day preceding the regattta. The best sailing crafts of the island are expected to come here September 1, when a reception to all visitors will be held at the clubhouse.

Eastern Shore and Tidewater Sections Represented.

Invitations are going out to all yacht clubs on the Delmarva Eastern Shore and in Tidewater Maryland, and to clubs in large nearoy cities. Last week a delegation of local club members was at St. Michaels attending the Miles River regatta, and efforts are being made to secure entries for all the races here, especially for the sailing canoe race, in which such formidable canoes as the veteran Island Blossom and the Majestic will compete. Privileges of the country club will be open to guests and all yachtsmen will be entertained by local club members. The arrangements committee is as follows: Commodore Edward W. Emory, Vice Commodore R. H. Rogers, Vice Commodore P. M. Brooks, E. F. Perkins, R. D. Wilson, Paul Phillips, N. A. Truslow, T. W. Perkins and J. P. Ewing.

LANGLEYS MEET TONIGHT.

The Langley Juniors will hold an important meeting tonight at 234 V street northeast, at 7:30 o'clock. All members of the club are requested to attend.

Beaten Legion Team Visits City "On Own"

Their ambitions blasted when they were eliminated in the regional American Legion tournament, the members of Beaver (Pa.) Nine and their coach, Paul Jones, are undaunted. They had toiled since early last spring to save $400 in expectation of playing in the semifinals here and late Sunday they arrived in the Capital City with a program of their own to entertain them. Their schedule includes three ball games against District teams and sight-seeing trips in and about the city.

Yesterday they gave the Plaza Stars a real battle before yielding, 5 to 2. Lynch, the 14-year-old star of the team, did some splendid hitting and fielding. A trip to Annapolis is planned by Jones today. Tomorrow the Vic Sport Shop Team will engage the visitors on No. 2 Monument diamond at 3:30 o'clock. Victory Post will clash with the Beaver lads on Thursday.

N. C. U. OPENS COACHING SCHOOL

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Aug. 19.—With Coach Bob Fetzer and the other university coaches on hand, the University of North Carolina's eighth annual coaching school for high school athletic directors opened today.

The school will last through August 31, with lectures each morning and practical demonstrations in the afternoons. Secretary E. R. Rankin would not make any predictions as to enrollment, but said that advance applications and enquiries give every indication of a highly successful school again this year. A total of 79 coaches from New York to Florida enrolled for last year's school.

Coach R. A. Fetzer, university director of athletics, will head the staff, which will be materially stronger this year for the addition of Chuck Collins, head football coach of the university, and which will include virtually all of the university's regular coaching staff.

Courses to Include Both Theory and Practice.

The other members will be James N. Ashmore, William J. Cerney, P. H. Quinlan, Rex Enright, M. D. Ranson, E. C. Jernigan and E. H. Ellinwood.

Courses will be given—theory and practice—in the coaching of football, basketball, baseball, tennis, track, soccer, boxing, wrestling and training and conditioning of athletes.

Pat Crawford Causes Another Civil War

Sumter, S. C., is very proud of Pat Crawford, a native son and member of the New York Giants. A news story recently got out which gave Pat's residence as Raleigh, N. C.

The Sumter residents were indignant and one of them took it upon himself to set matters right. He promptly wired the news association responsible for the story:

"Pat Crawford lives here. He's no North Carolinian."

GRID HOPES BRIGHT AT ROANOKE

Footballers Report to Coach Spruhan on Sept. 9.

SALEM, Aug. 19.—Roanoke College gridiron candidates have been ordered to report at College Field on September 9 for fall training, three weeks before the opening game with Virginia Poly at Blacksburg.

Prospects are bright for a good combination at Roanoke this year, with Coach "Pinkey" Spruhan having a nucleus of six letter men around which to build. The reserve material is not so plentiful, but with fair luck on injuries the Maroon Eleven should be right in the running for the Virginia Conference championship.

The line will furnish Coach Spruhan's major problem at the start of the fall season, with the ends and guard positions to be filled. Goode, veteran tackle; Ritter, varsity tackle two years ago, and Gix, center or guard, are the three letter men returning for the front wall.

Three Former High Captains Graduate From Frosh.

Three husky chaps, all former captains of high school teams, are being sent up from the freshman squad for the line. They are Bob Abbot, guard, Roanoke; Pete Lavinder, center; Salem and MacPherson, tackle; Iron Gate, former Clifton Forge star. These three boys with Caughman, last year's reserve guard, and Clarke, Zirkle and Hopkins, spring football finds, give Coach Spruhan a fair amount of good material to plug the holes in the middle of the line.

Farley and Henson on last year's freshman squad will also be on hand for the guard places. The Maroon line from tackle to tackle will be heavier and fresher than for several years. The loss of Nank, rated as one of the best centers ever developed in the State, will be felt but Coach Spruhan is hoping that his three letter men will be able to steady his green material.

End Berths Offer Problem To Coach Spruhan.

The flank posts furnish a problem. Bell and Rutherford, a pair of crack ends will be back but Coach Spruhan expects to use them to plug a couple of gaping holes in the backfield. Both are good ball carriers and have shown promise of developing into great backs.

Ahalt, last year's reserve end, and Trimmer, Farrier, and Allen, coming up from freshman ranks, furnish the only available material for the wing berths. These boys are fast but small and rather hard to fit into the forward passing attack that is used to a marked extent by the Maroon mentor.

It might be that Bell and Rutherford will have to be moved back to their regular posts but this will not be done until the quartet of candidates have been given a chance to make good. A couple of the reserve tackles might also be given a shot at the berth.

NAVY PLEBE GRID SQUAD REPORTS

225 Candidates Don Togs at Opening Season Drill.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 19.—First signs of the approaching football campaign at the Naval Academy came today when 225 members of the new fourth class of midshipmen, recruited this summer, responded to the call of the staff of coaches and went through the customary elementary paces. A touch of fall temperature was in the air and the yearlings showed lots of pep as they passed and booted the spheroid about the greensward of Farragut Field. Every player was fully equipped with playing togs.

Navy Bill Ingram, who again will act as chief field coach, was on hand to greet the newcomers, as were also Ensigns Harry Hardwick, Johnny Cross and Charley Schwab, of the 1927 varsity group; Big Tom Wilson, tackle of last year's team, and Johnny Wilson, former St. John's star, who has been righthand man in practically all major sports at the naval school for more than a dozen years.

The squad is one of the largest that ever come out of a plebe class. They are a fine-looking group and many have had previous experience on college or prep school elevens. The mentors, however, will not get a good line on them for several days.

Usual Weeding Out Soon to Reduce Squad.

The group will be greatly reduced when weeding out time begins. The best material will be selected for the regular plebe squad and the next in order will be developed for the class teams. Plebes are not eligible for place in the varsity group under the academy's three-year rule.

Three weeks hence gridiron work will be on in earnest, as the veterans of the last one or two years will report their return from vacation and buckle on armor.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Alexandria, Va., Aug. 19.—J. T. Pullman has been elected manager of the Potomac Yards Athletic Association, to succeed R. E. McDonald who recently resigned, the selection of Pullman, which was made by the managers of the various teams, being unanimous. He has had varied experience along athletic lines, and was considered the logical man for the job.

The baseball season sponsored by the association is now drawing to a close, with several teams in a nip-and-tuck race for the championship banner.

The second annual field day of the association will be held in Alexandria September 14, and will be featured by a 10-mile modified marathon run, which will be open to all runners in Alexandria, northern Virginia and Washington. Those who desire to compete in this event have been requested to send in their names to Bernard Rosenblatt, secretary of the Potomac Yards Association, Potomac Yard, Va. The winner will receive a handsome loving cup, while medals will be awarded to all runners who complete the course.

Other field day events will include the 100-yard dash, 440-yard run, 880-yard run, 220-yard low hurdles, 1-mile relay, shot put, broad jump and other vents to be announced later. A baseball game will follow the field events.

Secretary Rosenblatt has appointed the following committee to assist Athletic Director Pullman in the handling of the field day events: H. M. Spiller, C. L. Burgess, Joe Theimer, J. E. Cobean, O. C. Gates, L. E. Remington and William Johnson.

MARY DELLA

A Serial Story

By JULIE ANNE MOORE.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

MARY DELLA CHUBB, 18, pretty, snappy, the original exponent of IT, works in the clock shop and lives in a Bank street flat with her parents. Her closest girl friend is MIRIAM BOBBIN, who also works in the clock factory. Having been warned by Miriam about the RED MASK, brutal masked slugger who has been the terror of parking couples in and around Waterbury, Mary Della goes to meet JOE SPEAKS, her "steady company" in front of the postoffice. But Joe fails to appear and Mary Della, angry, starts across the street alone and is nearly run down by a long yellow roadster driven by a young man in a raccoon coat.

This young man is ROBERT HENLEY CALKMAN 3d, one of the Calkmans of Detroit, Yale senior, and just accepted as a prospective husband by MARJORIE MARBEE, who lives on fashionable Cracker Hill. Robert doesn't know where the hospital is. Mary Della opens one eye and offers to direct him. But she maliciously directs him past the hospital and out East Main street. Robert wakes up to the fact that Mary Della is spoofing him. The conversation turns to parking and petting. Mary Della names the favorite parking stations around Waterbury, including the arc of old highway about half way to Cheshire off the new Cheshire road. She points it out to him a few minutes later and Robert turns the car into the road and parks. Mary Della threatens to walk back, but relents when she sees Robert's embarrassment. Back in the car, Robert asks if he may kiss her. Another car comes into the road and turns its light out. The night is black. Mary Della impulsively throws her arms about Robert's neck and kisses him. And then * * * CHAPTER V.

When the 12 o'clock whistle blew, Miriam caught Mary Della's arm and rushed her toward the stairway. "Where to?" she asked.

"Where can we talk?" asked Mary Della. "I've got plenty on my chest and I've got to get it off."

"No trouble——?" Miriam asked, suspicious.

"Plenty," replied Mary Della, "and I don't mean possibly. Where can we go?"

"We better go to my room. There's not much to eat there, but I'll shake up something. We'll have a little privacy, anyhow."

Miriam's father ran a farm out near Wolcott and, except on Saturday night and Sundays, she occupied a very small and very crowded room with a family on South Main street.

"Why, honey, you look like you'd been run over by a dump truck. Here, put on a little color."

"That's all I've been doing since I got up," Mary Della declared, accepting the compact.

"I might as well start in now, Miriam. There's a lot to tell and I'll go off the bat if I can't get a little sympathy. I won't blame you if you don't believe me because I can hardly believe it myself. But it's every bit true * * * and terrible!"

And as they walked down Cherry street and through Mill and Union streets to South Main, Mary Della told Miriam the story, beginning with the date with Joe.

And Miriam listened, with open mouth, too stunned to offer more than an occasional ejaculation, too deeply sympathetic to protest against what seemed to her an utter impossibility.

"But you didn't really kiss him?" Miriam demanded. "You couldn't, Mary Della."

"Of course I kissed him. And I'd kiss him again, a thousand times again, if I had a chance. But you won't understand that and it's not important right now. What I'm telling you now is that the very instant our lips touched, we drew back into opposite corners of the car, our fists clenched, our eyes wide and our hearts pounding like hammers.

"He was the first to find his voice. "'My God!' he cried. 'What was that?'

"I was cold all over, Miriam, and weak. I'll never forget how weak.

"'It was a scream,' I said, my voice trembling, 'a woman's scream * * *'

"Did you ever hear a woman scream in the night, Miriam? Can you imagine how a woman would scream if she thought she was about to have her throat cut? You can't imagine it, because I couldn't before. But I tell you, it's the most awful thing you ever heard; it cuts your breath short and runs up and down your spine, and makes you sweat while you're shaking with a chill.

"'It was a woman's scream,' I told him, 'and she's probably in that other car up there.'

"We couldn't see the other car; there wasn't any room and the sky by this time was black with clouds. It was pitch black. But I knew the car was there, because I remembered when it had come in and turned its lights off.

"And then we heard the scream again, Miriam, but this time it ended short.

"'It's murder, Bob,' I whispered * * *It was the first time I'd called him by his name and scared as I was I got a kick out of saying it * * * 'It's murder, Bob,' I said, 'as sure as heaven, and the quicker we get out of here——'

"But I'd no sooner said it than I knew what a coward I was, because he was opening his door and crawling out.

"'I'm going up there and find out what it's all about,' he said quietly 'If I don't come back in a few minutes, you slip out that side of the car and hide in the woods until you can get to the highway and stop a car.'

"My throat was so dry I couldn't hardly make a sound.

"'Don't leave me here,' I called after him in a loud whisper, but he was gone."

"Blessed Mary!" said Miriam. "And you there in the car by yourself * * *"

"That was the most awful ten minutes I ever spent in my life, Miriam. You can't describe it. It was hell, forty times over!

"There I sat, not more than 50 feet from what I knew in my heart was something terrible, and a fellow I'd suddenly got to like a whole lot more than was good for me gone out to nose around without so much as a pocketknife.

"At first I expected every second to hear a gun go off, or have somebody open the car door and knock me over the head. But there wasn't a sound, and after a little while it was the silence that got me. I felt like I'd scream if I had to sit there and wait a minute longer.

"And then * * * it shows you how numb I was at that first scream * * * and then, I thought of the light. I think he remembered 'em, but had his own reason for not turning 'em on.

"I thought a minute to try to decide what he'd want me to do. But by that time my nerves were shot I had to do something, quick.

"I found the wheel and slid my hand down the spoke to the switch. Then I turned the lights on——"

"You poor darling," Miriam threw an arm about the sobbing Mary Della. "Don't talk about it any more now You poor kid——"

"But I've got to tell you the rest," Mary Della cried. "I—I won't feel better until I tell somebody.

"It was like one of those awful mystery movies, Miriam. I turned the switch and there was the picture.

"There he was . . . Bob, I mean . . . lying on his face in the road, and not ten feet away was a women, all crumpled up, and between them . . . Oh, Miriam! I'll never forget it as long as I live . . .

"Between them stood a man . . . a rather heavy-set man with what looked like a piece of gas pipe in his hand . . . and he was wearing a . . . a . . ."

Miriam suddenly released the cup and saucer she held in one hand; they fell to the floor with a loud crash.

"For God sake, Mary Della," she cried, "don't tell me it was . . . the Red Mask . . . !"

But Mary Della's head had fallen limply to one side and her eyes were staring emptily at the wall.

* * * *

"I couldn't help it," Mary Della said, looking up into Miriam's anxious eyes. "It's been coming on all day."

Miriam was rubbing Mary Della's forehead with a damp cloth. "Lie quiet, honey," she coaxed. "You've been through a hard night, what I mean. But we've got plenty of time and you'll be feeling O. K. soon if you take it easy."

"I'm all right now, Miriam. Just a little shaky."

She sat up, shook her head violently, and threw it back with an abrupt motion that disposed of the combing problem.

"I've been holding in all night and all day, and I had to let go to somebody. Can I have your mirror and compact for a minute? I'll be straightening myself out."

She set the mirror between her knees at a convenient angle and dabbed her cheeks with a ridiculously small puff. "Where'd I leave off, Miriam?"

"Listen, honey," Miriam begged, "let's talk about it some other time. You're just working yourself into a fever."

"Be your age," Mary Della snapped. "I'm ready for battle now. The fainting spells don't come more than once in a year, and that's over . . . you're wondering, I guess, what made me act like such a silly when I turned the lights on that pleasant little scene. The truth is, I don't know, except that . . . that he didn't come on the scene like I'd expected him to.

"You know, I was bragging around that if the Red Mask ever stuck his nose in a car where I was hanging out, I'd crack him over the bean with a jack handle or something.

"But look what went before. That scream was enough to turn your blood to water. And then, Bob going out and never making a sound. Believe me, I was about ready for a sanitarium before the Red Mask made his bow, and I don't mean there's any argument about it.

"Don't I know it!" exclaimed Miriam. "I'd dropped dead right on the spot. Good grief! Did you know what to do next?"

"Hardly. But I know one thing, and that was that he had croaked or tried to croak Bob and the woman, and I figured I was next."

"Don't tell me he started after you . . .?"

"If I hadn't expected it, I'd probably had a stroke of paralysis right then and the game would have been up. But I was thinking pretty fast by that time. I remembered what Bob had said about hiding out in the woods. So the first thing I did was turn out the lights. Even chances.

"Then I slid out the door, closed it easy behind me, and ran straight back down the road for about a hundred feet, got down on my hands and knees and crawled into the wood.

"I couldn't make out when he got to the car, but he must of been there pretty quick after I got out. It was a couple of minutes before he found the switch and turned the lights on. Then he turned them out again.

"By that time, he'd found out that whoever had turned those lights out before had headed for parts unknown.

"I heard him kicking around at the side of the road a little bit, but he knew it was too big a job to search the whole woods and he gave it up."

"Thank God!" Miriam groaned.

"About a minute later the light on the other car came on and the engine started. If I'd had any sense, Miriam, I'd have gotten the license number of that bus while Bob's lights were shining on it. But I didn't think about it until I saw his car moving out onto the highway, headed toward Waterbury.

"I had an idea he might try to trap me by coming back in a few minutes to see if I was in the car again, but there wasn't any time to think about that then. Bob and the woman were out there, dead or dying, and I was the only one to do anything about it."

What happened to Mary Della next? And were Bob and the strange woman really killed? Well, plenty happened. You'll know tomorrow.

GROWTH OF WEALTH RIVALS POPULATION

Increase in Holdings Found to Outspeed That of Nation's Population.

STOCK TRADING EXPANDS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Wealth in this country is increasing at a much more rapid rate than population, the National Home Study Council observes from the latest figures of the Comptroller of the Currency.

In bank deposits alone, the growth is more rapid than that of population, money on deposit in the banks of the United States being sufficient to put approximately $448 to the credit of every resident.

The council states the figures reveal that financial power concentrated in New York gives that State leadership of the Nation in per capita bank deposits, the average bank balance in New York being approximately $1,190. Massachusetts ranks second with $1,026 in the bank for every resident of the State; Rhode Island with $773 is third and Connecticut with $727 is fourth. Fifth place goes to California, where people are shown to maintain balances averaging $711 per person.

These same States rank highest in enrollment for home study courses, furnishing almost 30 per cent of the 1,500,000 students pursuing studies at home, the council's report states.

Stock Trading Increases.

Continued heavy sales of small-priced issues brought the trading volume in the stock division of the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday 289 shares ahead of the closing session last week, sales of 529 shares being reported at the close of the market. The day's total of $5,100 in the bond market was a recession of $2,000 from Friday's business.

Stock sales included 180 shares of Real Estate Mortgage & Guaranty preferred at 7⅜, 190 shares of National Mortgage & Investment preferred at 4¼ and of 50 Barber & Ross, Inc., common at 18, all last sale prices. All of the bond and costlier stock issues traded in small lots. A single share of American Fire Insurance sold at 325, a 20-point gain.

Reserve Bank Report.

Declines for the week of $132,000,000 in loans and investments, $49,000,000 in net demand deposits, $44,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve Banks and an increase of $18,000,000 in time deposits were shown yesterday in the Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in 101 leading cities on August 14.

Loans on securities decreased $143,000,000 at all reporting banks. Holdings of United States Government securities showed little change for the week and net demand deposits at all reporting banks were $49,000,000 below the August 7 total. An increase of $29,000,000 in time deposits in the Chicago district was partially offset by reductions in most other districts, all reporting banks showing a gain of $18,000,000.

Prospective Investors Warned.

Prospective investors were warned yesterday by the National Better Business Bureau of New York City that in buying securities on installments, they should check carefully on three important features; these being purchase of substantial stock, assurance of stock delivery after purchase and investigation of costs charged for installment purchases to be sure of reasonable rates.

Prospective investors are advised to buy securities having an open market; inquire into company records and satisfy themselves as to management and earnings and to purchase stocks through responsible and substantial mediums.

Multiplies Capital 350 Times.

A group of statisticians calculating the growth of American banks have discovered the hitherto unrealized fact that one of New York's banks, the Chase National, in less than 52 years has multiplied its capital 350 times over.

In 1877, when this bank was founded, it had capital of $300,000. Today, after giving effect to its consolidation with the National Park Bank, the enlarged Chase institution will have capital of $105,000,000. While two New York banks are larger in point of total resources, the study of bank records shows thus far no other bank in the world which has grown to such size in so short time.

A. E. Dodd to Attend Opening.

Alvin E. Dodd, former resident of Washington, now assistant to the president in charge of retail operations of Sears, Roebuck & Co., will be here tomorrow for the opening of the new retail department store of that company at 911 Bladensburg road.

Mr. Dodd was the first manager of the domestic distribution department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The official party of visitation to the opening will be Mr. Dodd, J. M. Barker, manager for the company's Philadelphia region, and H. W. Kingsley, regional retail manager for the company.

Underwriters to Hold Luncheon.

The District of Columbia Underwriters Association will hold a luncheon meeting this afternoon at 12:30 o'clock at the Arlington Hotel, which will be addressed by James Elton Bragg, general agent for the Union Central Life Insurance Co., in Philadelphia, and chairman of the program committee of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

The convention committee, headed by John Cremen, is completing arrangements for the national convention here in September at the Mayflower Hotel. Entertainment features will include a breakfast session, reception and ball, banquet and trip to Mount Vernon.

New Stock Offering.

Coincident with public offering today by Goldman, Sachs & Co., of convertible preference and common stock of Blue Ridge Corporation, a new investment company, Blue Ridge Corporation is offering to exchange shares of its convertible preference and common stock for common stock of 21 of the leading industrial, railroad and public utility corporations listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Blue Ridge Corporation, which will have the same sponsorship and management as Shenandoah Corporation, will start operations with assets aggregating more than $127,500,000.

The offer by Blue Ridge Corporation, which is on a scale without precedent in American finance and introduces an entirely new step in investment company finance, is designed not to secure control of any corporation but to enable the company to build up substantial holdings in these corporations.

Big Growth in Business.

A remarkable growth in business done, capital employed and net income is indicated in the nine-and-one-half-year record written in the latest report of the Commercial Credit Co.

Gross receivables purchased in the first half of 1929 were 2.72 times those of the entire year 1920 and were exceeded by those of only three full years from 1920 to 1929. Net income for the six months was exceeded by only two full years of that period.

Eastman, Dillon & Co. have prepared an analysis of Campbell, Wyant & Cannon Co. capital stock.

B. O. Harper, partner of Crane, Parris & Co., has returned from a vacation in Canada.

Cashier M. F. Catnan, Liberty National Bank, is back from a two-week vacation.

George Bowie Chipman, resident partner of Harriman & Co., will return this week from his summer home at Castine, Me.

Assistant Cashier H. T. Bisselle, Riggs National Bank, has concluded his vacation.

FARM BOARD WILL AID COTTON GROUP

Plan Provides Financial Advances to Be Made Against Crops.

GROWERS SEE BENEFITS

(Associated Press.)

Cotton farmers are to receive the full cash equivalent of this year's crop in advance whenever they are "in distress and must have money," under plans announced yesterday by the Federal Farm Board.

The funds will be advanced through the cotton cooperatives. The board itself will advance 25 per cent of the value of the crop, 65 per cent will be loaned by the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks, and the remaining 10 per cent will be paid from the capital reserves of the cooperatives.

How much money actually will be required was said by the board to depend solely on the neds of the cooperative association. It is expected that the sums involved in this year's marketing operations will run somewhere between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000, but board members said they stood ready to go as far as the industry required.

The advances to be made by the board will be on cotton upon which "a definite value has been fixed by hedging in the future market." A statement accompanying the announcement said the effect of the secondary loans to be made by the board would be "to permit the cooperative associations to make final settlement with a member grower when the latter desires to sell his cotton without forcing their cotton onto the market at a time when buyers may be oversupplied.

"From the Federal intermediate credit banks and the Federal Farm Board," the statement said, "the associations will receive advances equal to 90 per cent of the fixed value. To this amount the cotton associations will add 10 per cent from their own capital reserves, will pay in full the grower who is in distress and must have money, and will at the same time be able to merchandise the cotton in an orderly fashion as the spinning mills of the world require."

FOREST FIRE CENTER CREEPS EASTWARD

Rain Helps Fighters But Lives Are in Danger at Some Points.

SMALL TOWN DESERTED

Seattle, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The center of the forest fire menace in the Pacific Northwest moved eastward today as rain in western Washington and improved weather conditions in central Washington gave the fire fighters a breathing spell.

Telephone communication to Bonners Ferry in northern Idaho was cut off by the fires near there. More than 10,000 acres had been reported burned over, and three ranches destroyed. Other Idaho fires were reported quiet.

All women and children at a small town west of Fernie, B. C., were brought to Fernie by special train last night as a precautionary measure when fresh fires, fanned by high winds, threatened to destroy the town. The wind had subsided today and the fire situation was less serious.

Forest fires also threatened Nelson and Slocan City, B. C. While a failing wind, thundershowers and large crews of fire fighters had contributed to lessening the menace, there was still grave danger.

At Slocan City fears were felt for the safety of a logging operator named Johnson, his wife and child and 22 men trapped up the north Fork of Evans Creek behind a wall of flames. Woodsmen believed the party had sought shelter in one of the lakes of the district.

A special train with equipment for the fire fighters was sent from Nelson to aid forces at Slocan City. Reinforcements also were marshalled for fires around Nelson. The Hall Creek fire, 11 miles away, had been stirred into action by the wind and had eaten its way to within 2 miles of settlements.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against McKee several weeks ago. A petition for the appointment of receivers was filed yesterday by the same creditors.

ARLINGTON COUNTY STARTS PAY SLASH

Prosecutor Loses Typist; Engineer's Clerk Must Take Salary Cut.

OTHER REDUCTIONS SEEN

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Faced with an approximate loss of $150,000 a year in revenue as the result of the annexation proceedings brought against the county by the City of Alexandria, the county board of supervisors at its meeting yesterday started slashing salaries, beginning with the cutting off of $125 a month for a stenographer for the office of the Commonwealth's attorney.

Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth cited the duties of his office to the county board of supervisors was that of legal adviser.

"Since I have held this office the business of the county has increased by leaps and bounds until today I am called upon to do all manner of work and answer dozens of telephone calls daily. That can't be done unless I have help," he said.

Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, sponsor of the motion to make the reduction, said that the county's overhead had to be cut and that he considered this one of the places to start.

Gloth replied: "My duties as legal adviser do not require me to search titles and prepare all classes of legal papers that I have done in the past. If this reduction is made, I shall perform my duties to this board as the law prescribes."

"Am I to consider that as a threat?" asked Hedrick.

"You can take it as you wish," said Gloth, "but remember, boys, I shall be Commonwealth attorney for two more years, and, for any special services rendered, bills will be presented."

Chairman Edward Duncan, who seconded the motion, informed Gloth that the board will be perfectly willing to consider any bills that may be rendered. The action of the board becomes effective September 1.

The next office Hedrick took up was that of Sheriff Howard Fields, where the salary of Constable H. T. Baker, of Jefferson District, $50 a month will be cut off September 1.

Coming to the office of County Engineer C. L. Kinnier, Supervisor Hedrick declared the salary of $50 a week of Harry Miller, a clerk, too much and on his motion Miller's salary was cut to $1,800 a year.

Supervisor E. C. Turnburke, of Washington Disrtict, considered the dropping of the stenographer in Gloth's office and the heavy reduction in the salary of Miller too drastic and refused to vote.

Chairman Duncan announced that there would be reductions in all county departments. C. L. Kinnier, county engineer, was instructed to prepare a report of the standing of all departments for the board's consideration at its meeting August 30.

After more than three hours of argument carried on by those opposing and favoring the granting of a permit to Mrs. Marie Clark Bell for the establishment of a gasoline filling station on the Lee highway opposite the intersection of Virginia and Rucker avenues, Lyon Village, the supervisors passed a motion offered by Supervisor Hedrick giving the opposition the opportunity to appear before the zoning commission at its meeting Friday night to ask for a rehearing. The motion did not direct that the commission grant a rehearing.

Leading the opposition, Robert N. Anderson, president of the Lyon Village Citizens Association, declared that the citizens had not had sufficient notice to prepare any case to fight the project. Anderson said that he had been called up Friday morning and advised the application would be before the commission that night.

Attorneys Charles T. Jesse and Thomas Phillips, counsel for Mrs. Bell, strongly opposed any move to continue the case. Jesse declared that the opposition had at the hearing Friday night presented its case and that nothing new has developed at this meeting and further no request for a rehearing was made at the meeting of the zoning commission.

It was claimed by Anderson that the erection of a filling station at the proposed site will cause a reduction in property values and that the citizens should have the right to be heard.

Walter U. Varney, president of the Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association, entering into the discussion, asserted that the proposed station brought to the county another fire hazard and wished to enter his protest.

The board announces that should the zoning commission still approve the application, their action will be final and that the permit will be effective forthwith.

The board, being advised by Attorney Edgar W. Pumphrey that Frank L. Ball and Lawrence Douglas, owners of the former home of the Clarendon Fire Department and the community hall, have agreed to sell to the fire department a site on Washington avenue in the rear of the present building 25 by 50 feet for $1,500, the supervisors instructed the county clerk, William H. Duncan, to request the department to stop operations on the new building. Until the matter can be settled and unless operations are stopped, no new apparatus will be delivered to the Clarendon department.

Joseph Boss, member of the board of trustees of the Clarendon Methodist Church, who are most affected by the present location of the new firemen's hall, told the board that the church has offered to give the department $500 and that he himself offers to buy the present lot, giving them a profit of $100. He said further that the building they are erecting at a cost of $1,450 has on one side a $12,500 home and on the other a $9,000 home.

The supervisors said they wanted to help the fire departments, but that they will not cooperate with any department that refuses to cooperate with citizens.

The board signed the contract for the widening of Wilson boulevard from the Military road to Clarendon, giving it to John H. Olcott, of Arlington County.

The contract for resurfacing Wilson boulevard with amesite was awarded to Brady Bros., of Frostburg, Md.

The application of A. H. Brown for a permit to erect a one-story building on the Lee highway opposite the Robert E. Lee School and approved by the zoning commission was approved and granted by the board of supervisors.

Speedy action on the part of Robert I. Mount, resident State highway engineer, assures relief to the residents along the Glebe road from the clouds of dust which have resulted from the heavy traffic owing to the closing of sections of the Lee highway.

Mount announced last night that the contractors, Jarboe & Houghton, who have the contract for the building of the Glebe road will start today with fifteen trucks of gravel to surface the road, starting from the Lee highway and extending to Memorial drive. Mount declared that the road has been for some time ready for the gravel and that he was determined to see to it that work starts today.

In addition to getting he work under way along the Glebe road, Mount said that the State will take five tons of calcium chloride of the twenty tons that the county has ordered and spread it along Garrison road, one of the State detours.

County Engineer C. L. Kinnier announced that ten tons will be delivered at the county property yards today and that it will be immediately placed over the roads used as detours during the construction of Wilson boulevard.

The State Corporation Commission has granted a charter to the Arlington Times Inc., a county weekly newspaper with offices at Clarendon. The maximum capital stock, according to the charter, is $12,000 preferred stock, with $6,000 common stock.

The officers are R. Doyle Reeves, president; Arthur Orr, vice president and treasurer; Leola J. Ellis, secretary. The above-named officers constitute the board of directors.

The Arlington - Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association will hold its monthly meeting tonight in the Cherrydale Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock with President Walter U. Varney presiding. Mr. Varney requests a full attendance as many matters of vital interest will come up for consideration.

Charged with reckless driving, Eugene Mills was fined $14.25 by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas yesterday.

Front Royal Jail Break Is Balked

Epileptic Prisoner Makes So Much Noise Alarm Is Raised.

Special to The Washington Post.

Front Royal, Va., Aug. 19.—Lacy Williams, who has been held in the county jail here awaiting trial for murder of his uncle, Welton Williams, attempted to saw his way out of the jail Sunday night. Tom Darr, another prisoner, was awakened by Williams, who is an epileptic. It is supposed the man became so excited when he got so near freedom that it caused him to have an attack. Darr called Deputy Sheriff Shirley Collins, who, on entering the jail, found Williams had sawed all but one-sixteenth of an inch of the last bar to freedom.

This is the third attempt in the last six weeks by prisoners to break jail by sawing their way out. Three saws have been taken away from Williams.

Williams, who was confined in the epilpetic colony at Colony, Va., for some time, made several escapes from that place, but upon returning to his home here was apprehended each time by Deputy Sheriff Shirley Collins.

HALTED WITH MAIL, CHARGE BY CARRIER

Right of State Police to Block Delivery May Come to Test.

TRAFFIC CODE INVOLVED

Special to The Washington Post

Georgetown, Md, Aug. 19.—An interesting legal battle looms as a possibility following a near-fistic argument here between a United States mail carrier and a motor officer of the Maryland motor vehicle commission's office. The question at issue seems to be whether or not an officer of the law has the right to interfere with the progress of the mails when he thinks the carrier has violated a State roads rule.

B. Frank Cohee, 60-year-old rural carrier between Lambson and Fredericktown, stopped here to deliver mail and pulled his car to the left side of the highway, parking it, he states, on the dirt road and away from north and south bound traffic on the concrete boulevard. Corpl. T. L. Klapproth came along on his motorcycle and ordered Cohee to show his driver's license. The carrier, protesting that he had overstepped no rule, refused to do so.

The officer then, according to Cohee, reached over and pulled the key from the engine of the mail truck so as to prevent its further progress. Cohee, who was fifteen minutes late in his work, then took the mail pouch on his back and started down the road. He was overtaken, he says, by Klapproth who, he alleges, grasped him by the collar and tore part of his shirt off. The policeman then ordered Cohee to go back and get his car. He did so and proceeded on his way.

The mail carrier has consulted State's Attorney Stephen R. Collins at Chestertown and has reported the incident to Capt. Harry Butler, in command of State police. An investigator from the commissioner of motor vehicles is looking into the case, although no action has thus far been taken. Cohee, it is said, is considering bringing the case to trial before a Chestertown magistrate.

The same officer has been reported to the State commissioner by Dr. E. A. Scott, of Galena, member of the Orphan's Court of Kent County, who was similarly accosted recently. It is said the policeman has since apologized to the physician.

Fireman to Go On Trial for Arson

Youth Said to Have Admitted Setting Two Blazes; Denies Third.

Special to The Washington Post.

Chestertown, Md., Aug. 19.—Tomorrow night Charles Tibbett, 22-year-old member of the Millington Volunteer Fire Company, who recently confessed to starting two fires in that town, will come to trial here before Magistrate Olin B. Stafford. Meanwhile efforts are being made by Detective Joseph Dougherty, of the State Insurance Commissioner's office, and State's Attorney Stephen R. Collins to obtain a confession in connection with a third fire in the lumber yard of John P. Ahern, Democratic leader in Millington.

Thus far he has steadfastly refused to admit the third act, though the State's attorney said today he had a witness to testify that he saw Tibbett leave the lumber yard just before the fire and turn in an alarm. His brother, George, who was arrested with Charles, has been released, there being no evidence against him. The garage that was burned in the second fire was the property of George and his father, Samuel Tibbett.

PEACH CROP AIDED BY NEEDED SHOWER

Hancock Territory Output 30 to 40 Per Cent of Usual Quantity.

HEAVY LOSSES INCURRED

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 19.—The peach crop in the Hancock territory, in the Potomac Valley, usually heavy, is 30 to 40 per cent short due to the drought, which was relieved somewhat by heavy rainfall this morning, the first in the Hancock neighborhood since July 1. This will help the late Elbertas to mature growers say, and also aid the apple crop generally. Some orchards had assumed a blasted appearance. The peaches generally are small because of the continued dry spell, but are of fine flavor. The Hancock growers had expected to send out at least 300 carloads, but indications are the shipments will be about half that amount. The park head siding of the Western Maryland is filled with refrigerator cars to meet the orders of the growers.

Truck Transport Used.

Georgia Bells and Hileys are the variety now being sent out with some early Elbertas. Scores of trucks from Pennsylvania and West Virginia points, including Wheeling, Pittsburgh, Uniontown, Altoona and Johnstown, load up at the Hancock orchards daily. They carry from 50 to 75 to 150 bushels and it is estimated at least one-third of the crop will be transported in trucks, being sold direct to the dealer at the orchard packing house. Prices obtained are from 50 cents to $1.25 a bushel, according to quality. Very choice bring $1.50. All day Sunday many orchards had pickers at work to save the rapidly ripening crop. One day's delay in picking would have meant the loss of many thousands of dollars to the growers.

The highest retail price in the local market has been $2.25 a bushel, although some grocers have been asking as high as 50 cents for a quarter peck. The uncertainty of profit in the fruit is illustrated by experience of one grower near Hancock, who expected to net from $10,000 to $15,000 from his crop. Hail last Tuesday riddled his orchard and he may get $50 out of it all.

Other Crops Are Damaged.

One grower said that the orchardists early in the season had visions of at least $1,000,000 being deposited in the Hancock banks at the end of th season as the result of sales. Now it will not be more than one-third of that amount and the drouth is held responsible. Orchardists in the Keyser territory are selling freestone peaches at auction as they come from the trees, which is a novelty. Auctions are held three times daily and prospective buyers are asked to bring their own containers.

The corn crop is completely ruined at many points, while wheat is half a crop. Tomato crops grown for packing houses are also hard hit. Some sections report no rain of consequence since May. Gardens generally have suffered and farmers say they have not been so damaged in years.

DONATED HOSPITAL NEAR COMPLETION

Charlottesville Awaits Institution Opening in October.

COST TOTALS $120,000

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 19.—A year ago announcement was made of the anonymous gift of $100,000 for a new building for the Martha Jefferson Hospital. The lot adjoining the present hospital was immediately purchased at a cost of $11,500. S. S. Johnson and R. O. Brannan, of Lynchburg, Va., were secured as architects and work on the plans was begun at once. These were promptly adopted and the contract let in December to H. A. Lucas, of Roanoke.

Work was actually begun on the hospital early in January and is now drawing near completion. Every indication points to occupancy of the building early in October.

The hospital, which is of brick, contains three stories and basement. It fronts on Locust Grove, one of the main thoroughfares in the residential district. In the basement are kitchen, dining room, diet kitchen, X-ray department, laboratory, furnace and boiler rooms and a room for delirious patients.

The first floor contains a reception lobby, general offices, quarters for the superintendent and internes, children's ward, small wards and private rooms. The second floor is given up almost entirely to private rooms, while on the third floor are found the operating department, consisting of major and minor operating rooms, obstetrical suite and sterilizing and washroooms. There is also a nursery, obstetrical ward and private rooms.

Ample Porch Space.

An unique feature is the large amount of porch space. There are two open porches at each end of the building and two closed porches at the rear, giving ample room to have all patients in the hospital on porches at one time.

A number of the private rooms are equipped with private baths. The entrance for ambulances and autos is at the rear, thus eliminating the noise of vehicles approaching the front.

The building is of semifireproof construction. The floors throughout, except those in private rooms and wards, are of terrazo. In the rooms of patients there are hardwood floors laid on cement.

The total cost of the building, exclusive of lot and equipment, is $100,000. Lot and equipment will leave a $20,000 deficit.

Since the founding of the Martha Jefferson Hospital in 1904, the corporation has been a stock company, all common stock of which was held by the doctors and the preferred stock by doctors and business men of the community. When the gift for the new building was made, the idea was conceived of converting the institution into a nonprofit organization. Accordingly all doctors who held $25,000 of common stock agreed to donate their holdings to the hospital, thus turning it over to the community.

Seek New Charter.

A new charter will be applied for to provide that no one will have any financial interest in the institution. Any profits that accrue will go toward improving the plant, or reducing the cost. The institution has never had any endowment and is entirely dependent upon revenues from patients for its maintenance. Under the new charter, the officers of the hospital hope to be able to take care of a few charity patients. The extent of this charity will be somewhat dependent upon the response of the community.

A few citizens have manifested an interest in this project and have agreed to equip rooms. The cost of equipment of a private room varies from $200 to $350.

J. R. Nuckles Dies In Auto Accident

Former Railway Conductor and Ernest Grant Are Victims.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 19.—J. R. Nuckles, 70, of this city, a retired Norfolk & Western Railway conductor, and Ernest Grant, 20, of Pleasantview, Amherst County, were victims of two automobile fatalities at an early hour this morning, one of which happened in the city and the other in Amherst County. J. E. Nuckles, 35, son of the dead conductor, was slightly injured, and Burger Duff, of Pleasantview, who was driving the car in which Grant was killed, suffered a fractured leg. He was brought to a hospital here. The elder and younger Nuckles were driving in Amherst with Oscar Eckhardt, of Boonsboro, and the car became disabled. O. P. Patterson went for them in a wrecking car, and, after towing the disabled car to a garage, he offered to take the Nuckles men home. On the way his car left the street and ran over a pile of street car material, breaking the neck of the elder Nuckles. After the accident Patterson was arrested on a charge of being under the influence of liquor.

Burger Duff told the police that he was playing with the steering wheel of his car, so that it left the road near Elon, Amherst County, and caused Grant's death.

Man, Back Broken, Testifies in Bed

Victim of Mishap Struck, He Alleges, by Hot Box on Train.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 19.—An incident with few parallels in compensation history was recorded here when Referee John R. Keefer, of Greensburg, went to the bedside of 20-year-old Clarence Graves, of Meyersdale, incapacitated by a broken back, which left his legs paralyzed and took testimony in the youth's petition against the Dickson Construction & Repair Co., of Hagerstown, Md. The referee conducted a bedside hearing because of the youth's inability to appear in court.

Graves was injured May 20 last at Rockwood while on his way home from work as a laborer for the Dickson Co., which is in charge of the maintenance work for the Western Maryland Railroad Co. In his haste to get home, he attempted to board a fast-moving Western Maryland freight train. Falling to the tracks, he was struck, according to his testimony, by a hot box on one of the cars.

MRS. C. V. CUSACHS AWARDED DIVORCE

Wife of Retired Commander Allowed $200 Alimony by Annapolis Court.

SEPARATED NINE YEARS

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 19.—Judge Robert Moss, in the Arundel County Circuit Court, today signed a decree granting absolute divorce to Mrs. Marguerite Porter Cusachs from her husband, Carlos V. Cusachs, retired professor of mathematics in the Navy, who held the rank of commander. The decree also carries with it alimony of $200 a month, payable monthly, this being my mutual consent, as professor Cusachs did not oppose the action.

Mrs. Cusachs instituted the suit several weeks ago on the ground of abandonment, and it was carried through to an amicable adjustment by attorneys, Irving Diener and Wilson L. Townsend, of Washington. On July 1 an agreement was entered into by the plaintiff and defendant under the terms of which the amount of alimony was fixed and each released the other from claim to any personal or other property under their contract.

Testimony taken in behalf of the plaintiff showed that the period of separation actually began about nine years ago and became absolute in July, 1926.

Prof. and Mrs. Cusachs, who were married in Annapolis in 1903, long were prominent in social circles here in Washington, Baltimore and elsewhere. They are members of prominent families. Mrs. Cusachs is a daughter of the late Commodore and Theodoric Porter and a descendant of Admiral David Porter. Prof. Cusachs is a native of Spain. He came to this country more than 30 yeras ago and for a number of years was an instructor in the department of modren languages at the Naval Academy. He was commissioned a professor of mathematics by special act of Congress. He resigned the Navy ten years ago. He has since been engaged in various business pursuits and in late years has made his residence in Washington at 2040 S street northwest.

Two children were born to the couple, the custody of whom was asked by Mrs. Cusachs in her suit, though both are virtually of age. They are Georgie Porter Cusachs and Marguerite Jaime Cusachs. They have positions in New York City, according to the plaintiff's testimony. Mrs. Cusachs lives in the Ogle House, one of the colonial mansions of Annapolis, purchased by her parents several years ago.
